

Differences Cloud Peace Parley

Reds Resisting U.S. Proposals

... Compromise Expected

ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — East-West differences clouded the start of the Vietnam peace parley Monday. The Vietnamese Communists resisted key U.S. proposals for the postwar era.

But clashes of principle and procedure among the 13 participants seemed capable of compromise and the confident forecast of delegates was that the parties involved will sign a "hands-off-Vietnam" promise on Friday.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers told the opening session: "If each party around this table makes a total and unrestrained commitment to playing a responsible role in carrying out this agreement, then peace will be guaranteed."

He was referring to the cease-fire agreement signed in the same room just a month ago by the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

The tone of conciliation that marked Rogers' speech brought few echoes when Mrs. Bgyuen Thi Binh, foreign minister of the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government, delivered her address.

She spoke of her people winning "the most brutal war of aggression in history." She charged the Saigon government is torturing, ill-treating, murdering "hundreds of thousands of patriots." She accused the United States of pursuing a "policy against peace and national concord."

These exchanges came after the conference had swiftly adopted a set of rules for itself. They provided for U.S. and North Vietnamese experts to produce the first draft of a declaration which the conference as a whole will present as its final act.

The realities of peacekeeping were thrust before the 13 delegations almost as they sat down in the ornate conference room of the old Hotel Majestic in downtown Paris.

Mitchell Sharp, foreign secretary of Canada, whose country is one of four supervising the cease-fire, laid down a virtual ultimatum.

Canada, he said, would quit the International Commission of Control and Supervision on April 30 unless some system could be agreed for dealing with violations of the cease-fire.

Presenting informal resolution on the issue he urged a definite role for U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim — a role empowering him to reconvene the conference in certain circumstances.

The Canadian demand won immediate backing from Rogers — but in quick succession Chinese, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong spokesmen turned it down.

Rogers asked the conference: —To recognize and acknowledge the Washington-Hanoi pacts as "a major contribution to peace, self-determination, national independence and friendly relations among states."

—To call upon the entire international community "strictly to respect and observe" all the agreements.

—To link the control commission with the conference in a way that would stabilize peace in Vietnam.

—To arrange this through some simple standby mechanism permitting any six participants to reconvene the conference if peace in Vietnam is threatened anew.

—To back up terms of the cease-fire signed recently in Laos and to encourage efforts to end the war in Cambodia.

—To help in "a relief, rehabilitation and reconstruction effort" throughout Indochina. In this context he stressed any contribution "must be made in full consultation with respect for the sovereignty of the recipients" and without political strings.

The statements of Asian Communist spokesmen swiftly served notice several of Rogers' ideas would be bounced right back at him.

The day began with the six Communist and six non-Communist parties, plus Waldheim, agreeing on a cochairmanship system — although they described the two men concerned as "presiding officers."

Sharp and Poland's Stefan Olszowski will alternate in that office — each taking two of the total four plenary sessions set for Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. Wednesday is being kept free in case some intensive background diplomacy is needed.

EVERETT STUDENTS ... present traffic safety suggestions to Holsinger.

Students Act ...

West A St. Safety Eyed

Robert Holsinger, Lincoln's city traffic engineer Monday was presented with 85 to 90 letters suggesting ways to make West A St. safer.

The letters were written by eighth graders at Everett Junior High at 1123 C. Nine students, accompanied by social studies teacher Ms. Joan Marotz, presented the letters to Holsinger and discussed safety measures with him.

Kenneth V. Pettit, 13, a student at the school, was killed Friday night in a car-pedestrian accident on West A west of the S.W. 16th intersection.

Ms. Marotz said the letters suggested better lighting, putting in sidewalks, establishing crosswalks and reducing speed limits.

She said the idea of writing letters came from the students in one of her Monday morning classes.

Following the meeting with the students Holsinger said that he would immediately undertake a study of speed limits on West A.

"As areas develop we try to bring the speed limits into line," he said.

Holsinger said he told the students to go to the Lincoln Electric System with their suggestion for better lighting on West A.

On the issue of putting in sidewalks, Holsinger noted that although the Lincoln City Council can create sidewalk improvement districts council members want to know if the property owners will support the measure.

Holsinger said that city officials and the Mayor's School Crossing Protection Committee are on record as supporting establishing sidewalks on both sides of every street.

Holsinger said the students' visit was a "sincere effort to establish things we would like to have support for."

Council District Vote Set May 1

... Pay Hike Proposal To Go On April 3rd Ballot

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Reacting to pressure from Lincoln state senators, the City Council Monday unanimously agreed to place a charter amendment on the May 1st ballot calling for the district election of council members.

Additionally, the council agreed to place a charter amendment on the April 3rd primary ballot calling for a council pay hike to $4,000 annually.

The districting plan picked by the council calls for election of all seven councilmen by district in both the primary and general elections, as proposed by LB448.

For 1975, the plan would go into effect in 1975 and thus not affect council elections this spring.

Lincoln State Senators Harold

Simpson and Wally Barnett, who sponsored LB448, told the council they would withdraw that bill if the council put the districting question to the vote of the people.

However, both representatives said they would not go for the plan proposed by the Charter Revision Committee—that of nominating council candidates by district and electing representatives at large.

Overrule District
Simpson said he objected to the nominating by district and electing at large plan because the city could overrule the district's choice in a candidate. Additionally, Simpson said a straight districting plan would help keep campaign expenses down.

The amendment provides for the slicing up of the city into seven districts, with four council members elected under the new plan in 1975. The remaining three would be elected by districts in the 1977 election.

The proposed amendment also provides procedures for filling of a council seat should the incumbent move out of the district.

Additionally, the measure provides that the council districts be apportioned by the City Council.

After Census
Reapportionment would occur following the census or in the event annexation of land would warrant redistricting.

In addition, the council directed City Attorney Dick Wood to prepare an amendment which would provide for rotation of candidates' names on the ballot. That amendment will be approved next Monday.

Mayor Sam Schwarzkopf told the council he favored the present at large system of electing council representatives.

Let People Decide
However, he said he would support placing of a charter amendment on the ballot to "let the people decide," instead of the Legislature.

Arguing that he still has not heard wide-spread public support for districts, Councilman Dick Baker said "it's being forced onto us by a few members of the Legislature."

Responding, Barnett quipped, "President Nixon is easier to get to than you are."

He stressed that council members would be more accountable to the electorate under the straight districting system.

'Whole Question'
Baker commented, "This whole question of responsiveness depends on whether the citizen fought City Hall and won or fought City Hall and lost."

Although both state senators and the council members emphasized they "hold no grudges," Simpson argued that northeast Lincoln has not been represented by the present council and has received second-rate city services as a result.

He cited the opposition to the proposed Northeast Radial, which, he contended, through land acquisition is displacing low income people.

I don't see the city doing anything about helping these people find homes," he said.

In approving the second charter amendment, the council also overrode the Charter Revision Committee's recommendation of a $5,000 salary figure.

Instead council members said the proposed $4,000 would have a better chance of voter approval.

$20 Per Meeting
Currently council members receive $20 per council meeting attending, to a maximum of $1,040 annually.

If the pay hike is given the green light by voters at the April 3rd primary, the raise would go into effect May 14, 1973 — the beginning of the next council term.

Three council seats are up for re-election this spring.

Air Deaths Discussed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir said Monday she hoped there would be no repetition of the incident in which Israeli fighters shot down a Libyan airliner.

"The standing orders in our army are such that I hope nothing like this will happen again," Mrs. Meir told a crowded press conference on her arrival in Washington.

"If we had an inkling that there were passengers on the plane nothing like this would have happened" despite the fact that the Libyan plane ignored instructions to land, Mrs. Meir said. Flanked by Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin and Assistant Secretary of State Joseph Sisco, Mrs. Meir said she understood why the world was taken aback by last Wednesday's tragedy.

"It would be indeed a callous world if it happened otherwise, but even in a state of shock and true sorrow we have to go on searching for peace," she said.

"It is high time that things began moving seriously, at least to talk together about peace," she said. Mrs. Meir praised the role the United States is playing in the Middle East and called it "the perfect role. The United States doesn't sit back, it is very much interested as it should be. It is anxious to have the first step taken, to help the parties to get together."

But Mrs. Meir added, "I'm sure the United States is prepared to do everything possible to help—everything except one thing: to decide for the parties" or impose a settlement in the Middle East. Mrs. Meir said that efforts to break the Middle East deadlock and last Wednesday's incident "should be kept apart."

attempt, he said, to bring quality education to all Nebraska children regardless of their school district.

"Equalization is a concept that everyone has to buy," Lewis said. "It's a disgrace that some school districts because of their location, because of their tax base, can provide better education at a lower cost. We need comparable education at comparable prices."

In answer to critics of higher state aid, Lewis added, "The expenditures of state government have increased 100% in the past five years. If our desire is for fiscal responsibility, then let's put a spending limit on state, county and city governments also."

Warner, who has appeared seven times before the Education Committee in the past 11 years on state aid, called the recent court cases challenging property tax support of schools "a sad commentary" on government's reluctance to respond to inequities.

"It is incumbent on the Legislature and the governor to act now and not let the situation further deteriorate," Warner said.

He repeated his feeling that the state should enact no new programs until the state aid issue is resolved.

Meany Is Not Surprised

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany said he was not surprised at the Nixon administration decision to retain the basic 5.5 per cent ceiling for pay increases during the Phase 3 economic plan.

"We eventually hope to get away from the ceiling," Meany said. "If we're going to have a figure, it should be 7.5 or 8 per cent."

Meany said "the supposition" was that the Cost of Living Council's Labor-Management Advisory Committee could bring about a higher wage limit soon because the administration's Phase 2 program "actually is relaxing their previous position on this."

The announcement in Washington that the 5.5 per cent ceiling would be maintained with some flexibility was only a restatement of President Nixon's Jan. 11 position, Meany said.

Meanwhile, the AFL-CIO Executive Council recommended in the final session of its annual meeting here that Congress impose controls on business profits, rents and agriculture products before extending the Economic Stabilization Act beyond its expiration date, April 30.

The council's statement said that while President Nixon's Phase 2 program was "utterly unfair and inequitable," the establishment of Phase 3 is "a step in the right direction" because it is largely self-administering.

In a long statement on food prices, the AFL-CIO council said the special exemptions on raw agriculture products from the Phase 3 stabilization program should be removed. The exemption is unfair and inequitable, the council added.

Hanoi Suspends POWs' Release

...Peace Agreement Must Be Honored, North Says

SAIGON (AP) — The chief spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation said Tuesday there will be no further release of American prisoners of war until several other points in the Vietnam peace agreement are honored.

The United States is responsible for the total application of the agreement, Hanoi spokesman Bui Tin declared. He said authorities in Hanoi and officials of the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government had ordered a freeze on the release of American prisoners in both North and South Vietnam.

He characterized the situation as "critical."

In Washington, the White House, State Department and Pentagon declined comment on the development.

Just before Tin's announcement, American military sources at Clark Air Base in the Philippines said North Vietnam was expected to hand over in Saigon on Wednesday a list of POWs to be freed the following day.

Tin said three critical points must be resolved before the next group of American prisoners will be released:

— Strict application of the cease-fire.

— Simultaneous return of civilian and military prisoners.

— A guarantee of improved working conditions for the four-party Joint Military Commission.

Tin said the Hanoi government understands very well the feelings of the families of the American prisoners and all Americans who wait for them to come home.

"But we must also think of the families of Vietnamese prisoners and of the millions of Vietnamese who are hoping for peace that they expect to come through the strict application of the Paris peace agreement."

He charged that the U.S. delegation "has shown bad faith and has shown only interest in getting U.S. prisoners back."

There was no immediate comment from the U.S. delegation. A subcommittee on captured persons convened again Tuesday morning in efforts to resolve the differences.

The United States had said earlier it would press the Communist delegation for a list and timetable of the next group of American prisoners to be released.

The North Vietnamese have repeatedly charged that the Saigon government has harassed and provoked their representatives and has sanctioned demonstrations that have led to violence against members of the Hanoi delegation.

At least seven North Vietnamese delegates were injured by mobs of rock-throwing demonstrators in the northern cities of Hue and Da Nang on Sunday, according to Tin.

Tin said if the harassment, provocation and lack of security and accurate accommodations continued, the Joint Military Commission could not function.

Death Penalty Becomes Law

Cheyenne, Wyo. (AP) — Wyoming Gov. Stan Hathaway has signed into law a measure setting mandatory death penalties for certain first degree murder convictions.

The measure specifies which first degree murders in the state are to be punished by mandatory death, and removes from the jury the option of recommending capital punishment upon a guilty verdict.

We Can Help You.

What Your Dollar Buys.

As you may suspect, selecting a stereo system is more than just a matter of taste. It is first and foremost the process of discovering just how much performance you can get for your dollar. How much sound will a system produce? How much of the full musical range does it cover? How clean and detailed is the overall sound? We (Stereo Studio) are uniquely able to demonstrate sound in our stores and show the easily audible differences that may be important to you. But we can be of help even before you come in. Because we spend a good deal of our time evaluating all kinds of stereo equipment for ourselves, we can supply a good preliminary summary of what performance characteristics can be had at what price, what you will gain if you spend more, what characteristics you might want to see emphasized at a given price level.

SUPERSCOPE

WESTEK
$229.95

For the limited budget we have matched the Westek Speakers with a Superscope AM/FM Receiver. The Superscope R-230 provides 10 RMS watts. Also included is the BSR McDonald 310X Turntable with base, dust cover and Shure Magnetic Cartridge. List $279.90

If you have somewhat more to spend, we suggest the Smaller Advent Loudspeakers paired with the Marantz 2010 AM/FM Receiver. The Marantz Receiver will deliver 20 smooth RMS watts at very low distortion at any audible frequency. The BSR McDonald 510X Turntable comes complete with base and dust cover, and Shure Magnetic Cartridge. List: $449.40

With a limited budget ($200-$300), you can get a system of reasonable accuracy, but some sacrifices are necessary at the extremes of the musical range to get satisfactory acoustic output (loudness). A system in this price range is most appropriate to small listening areas.

With a moderate budget ($400-$500), you have two choices. On one hand, you can get a system which provides accurate musical reproduction in every respect, with sufficient sound output for medium size rooms (2,000 cubic feet or less). Alternatively, if you like to play music very loud in a large room, you can select a different kind of system in this price range that sacrifices some musical accuracy (base response in particular) to get extra sound output.

With somewhat more to spend ($500-$700), you will be able to get a system that combines completely satisfying accuracy with ample output for even large listening areas and very loud musical levels. In addition, it will include features which add to ease and flexibility of operation, and which help to preserve your records. For most people, the point of diminishing returns is in this price range.

An unlimited budget ($1,000 and up) will afford you the very best equipment available. Such a system can provide a number of sonic refinements for the ultra-critical listener; truly thunderous sound output on demand; and a myriad of luxurious and helpful control features.

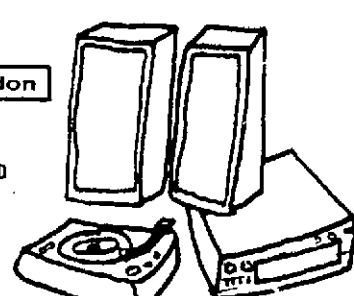

Examples.

At Stereo Studio we demonstrate, sell, and service the majority of good stereo equipment available. Of the many systems we can put together in each of the price ranges we've discussed, we've selected here four exemplary systems in the low- and medium-priced ranges. Each offers the best possible value for your particular number of dollars. And, given our dedication to providing quality components at the right price, we're confident that you'll find Stereo Studio can furnish you with a better system for less money and with better service than you are likely to get elsewhere. Thank you.

$299.95

For all the music in a low-medium budget range, we've combined the Harman-Kardon 330 AM/FM Receiver with a pair of Harman-Kardon HK-20 Speakers. The 10 watts RMS per channel is more than enough distortion free power to drive the HK-20 speakers. A BSR 310X turntable, complete with Shure magnetic cartridge, base and dust cover completes the system. List: $389.95

marantz

ADVENT
$499.95

For the ambitious medium budget, we've harnessed the Marantz 2010 AM/FM Receiver to a pair of Smaller Advent Loudspeakers. The Marantz receiver's 40 watts RMS is truly impressive when heard through the Advents, which can reproduce music from the lowest to highest audible notes. The BSR McDonald 610 AX is the latest version of the reliable automatic turntable, complete with base, dust cover and Shure magnetic cartridge. List: $549.90.

Pay Hikes Guideline Of 5.5% To Be Kept

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration said Monday it will retain the 5.5 per cent guideline for wages increases during Phase 3. But at the same time it signalled some loosening of the pay standard.

Confusion and contradiction cloaked the major economic policy announcements.

The confusion developed when President Nixon's chief economic spokesman said that Phase 2's basic wage standard would remain in effect. At the same time, the administration embraced a broadly worded policy statement which skirted any mention of the 5.5 per cent standard.

The statement said "no single standard or settlement can be equally applicable at one time to all parties in an economy so large, decentralized and dynamic."

President Nixon's decision to make the rigid guidelines more flexible appeared to be a major concession to labor. Public and private statements of administration officials indicated the move was an attempt to win labor's backing for Nixon's revamped economic program.

AFL-CIO President George Meany has opposed the 5.5 per cent standard as too low.

Nixon announced last month that he was ending Phase 2's mandatory wage-price controls for all but the food, health and construction industries.

He named a labor-management advisory committee to recommend a Phase 3 policy for wage increases, and that committee's statement was released by the White House Monday.

Of its nine points, ranking administration officials singled out this paragraph as "the basic guide" for Phase 3 wage increases.

"Considering the economy as a whole, responsible wage behavior requires continuing

Senate OKs Extending Foreign Aid Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Monday to extend foreign aid spending to April 30 and to provide funds for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare through the end of the fiscal year that expires June 30.

The measure now goes back to the House, which has voted to extend both of the appropriations through June 30.

Spending authority for both expires at midnight Wednesday.

Earlier, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted to condition continued foreign aid on release of impounded domestic program funds.

The committee approved a foreign military aid authorization bill for the current fiscal year with an amendment barring obligations after April 30 unless President Nixon, by then, has released some $4.5 billion in impounded funds for the Departments of Agriculture, Transportation, Health, Education-Welfare and Housing and Urban Development.

The committee adopted the amendment, offered by Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., on a 9-7 straight party line vote, with Republicans voting against.

The committee also added an amendment by Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., to bar any money for assistance to North Vietnam without specific authorization of Congress, and for assistance to South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia after June 30.

The authorization in the bill was cut from $2.2 billion requested by President Nixon to $1.55 billion for military aid programs.

Prime Lending Rates Raised By Large Banks

NEW YORK (AP) — Reacting swiftly to an easing of government opposition, many of the nation's banks raised their prime lending rates Monday from 6 to 6 1/2 per cent.

It was the first general increase since December in the prime — the minimum interest fee charged by banks on loans to corporate borrowers. It had not been at 6 1/2 since mid-January 1971, when it was dropping to an early 1972 bottom of 4 1/2.

Several banks said Monday they expected no immediate change in rates on mortgages and

Jet Crash Kills Seven In Georgia

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Seven persons were killed Monday when an executive jet crashed only seconds after taking off and the pilot reported to the control tower he had struck some birds.

The plane, owned by an Atlanta firm, was en route to Miami.

The victims were identified by the DeKalb County coroner's office as: David E. Phillips, 27, Jonesboro, Ga., the pilot; Ernest S. Selfors, 31, College Park, Ga., the copilot; Judson R. Draper Jr., 40, Marietta, Ga.; David Michael Howard, 29, Atlanta; Leonard Nicholson, 30, Covington, Ga., all employees or officers of the Machinery Buyers Corp., Atlanta, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Forbes Miree, Birmingham, Ala.

The coroner's office said Miree, 36, operated Miree Aircraft and Marine sales in Birmingham.

The plane went down in a wooded area after it brushed the top of an apartment building.

Witnesses said one of the two engines of the Lear jet was afire, and that the plane spewed flaming fuel over a parking lot, setting fire to several cars.

stabilization in the average rate of wage and benefit increase (total compensation per man-hour) in 1973 compared to 1972 so as to be consistent with the goal set by the President of getting the rate of inflation down to 2.5 per cent or less by the end of the year."

After the statement was adopted Friday in Miami Beach, labor sources reported that the panel had decided to advocate a more flexible standard on wage increases.

But Cost of Living Council Director John T. Dunlop told White House briefing Monday that "wage and price standards that existed in Phase 2 ... continue in effect."

He said there always had been some flexibility in administering wage controls, noting that some increases during the past year were above 7 per cent while others were below 5 per cent.

Taken together, Dunlop's comment and the committee's statement were viewed as an indication that the government, would take a more flexible approach in ruling on wage increases so long as the economy-wide average was compatible with Nixon's goal of holding the rate of inflation to 2.5 per cent.

Dunlop stressed that the committee's statement had been adopted unanimously—meaning that Meany, as a member, had voted for it.

Many major union contracts are up for negotiation this year and skyrocketing food prices are bringing pressure for wage increases well above the 5.5 per cent level.

Treasury Secretary George Shultz, who appeared with Dunlop at the White House briefing, repeated that the administration was concerned about rising food prices and that it "is prepared to take the necessary measures to increase agricultural supplies and to contain and reduce" supermarket prices.

One new step, he said, is the establishment of a tripartite committee to advise the government on ways to stabilize wages in the food industry.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A doctor testified Monday that reputed underworld financial wizard Meyer Lansky was fit to face trial as jury selection began in his federal contempt of court case.

Lansky, 71, looking fit and tanned, sat impassively as U.S. District Court Judge James King and defense attorney E. David Rosen questioned prospective jurors about their previous knowledge of the rackets figure.

Butcher Knife Is Swallowed

Kraut, a 4-month-old German shepherd pup owned by Benjamin Stevens of Philadelphia, jumped up and grabbed a 12-inch butcher knife from a table where his owner was preparing a sandwich. It must have smelled good, because Kraut swallowed the knife. Not only that, but the dog lived to bark about it. The X-ray photo shows the knife in the dog's stomach and the lower photo shows him with University of Pennsylvania Veterinary Dr. Roger Batt, right, and student Steve Blose after the knife was removed by surgery.

Lansky Fit

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A doctor testified Monday that reputed underworld financial wizard Meyer Lansky was fit to face trial as jury selection began in his federal contempt of court case.

Lansky, 71, looking fit and tanned, sat impassively as U.S. District Court Judge James King and defense attorney E. David Rosen questioned prospective jurors about their previous knowledge of the rackets figure.

Court Will Rule On CIA Secrecy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday agreed to decide if a taxpayer can challenge as unconstitutional the secrecy that cloaks the financing of Central Intelligence Agency operations.

The case involves the "standing" of taxpayers to challenge the actions of government when they think the Constitution has been abused.

The justices agreed to hear an appeal by the government of a ruling of the U.S. Circuit Court at Philadelphia that gave William B. Richardson of Greensburg Pa., standing to sue about the secrecy of CIA appropriations and expenditures.

If the Circuit Court ruling stands, argued U.S. Solicitor Gen. Erwin N. Griswold, then it "is almost certain to spawn a significant increase in suits by taxpayers challenging a wide variety of government programs."

In a 1968 case, the high court tempered a prohibition against taxpayer suits by establishing a two-point test. If a taxpayer establishes a personal stake in the issue, and can link that to a specific violation of the Constitution, then he can sue.

The government claimed that Richardson's complaint was a general one, and that the constitutional mandate required only publication of appropriations.

Under the 1949 Central Intelligence Agency Act, Congress appropriates, publicly, to government agencies money which is then transferred secretly to CIA.

If Richardson doesn't have standing to enforce the provision, said the Circuit Court, "then it is difficult to see how this requirement which the framers of the Constitution considered vital to the proper functioning of our democratic republic, may be enforced at all."

Also, in a series of rulings Monday, the justices refused to reopen the abortion issue for pleas from court-appointed guardians of the unborn, and for additional medical data.

The justices directed lower courts to apply their Jan. 22 decision to anti-abortion laws in nine states.

In that decision, the court ruled that states may not prohibit doctors from performing abortions in licensed medical facilities until the seventh month of pregnancy.

The court also agreed to hear the case of an Atlanta, Ga., man who said he should be allowed to challenge the constitutionality of the state's anti-trespass law, even though he has not been prosecuted under it.

Richard G. Steffel appealed a decision of the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans which barred his attack on the state law.

Steffel claimed it was used to abridge his right to distribute anti-war handbills at a Dekalb County shopping center in 1970.

At the same time, his petition to the court read, Boy Scouts and garden clubs were allowed to distribute literature, hold bake sales and the like.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

City Councilman Bob Sikyta's proposed "search for alternatives" to conventional street construction programs is a commendable piece of leadership. It represents the kind of innovative thinking that is really not seen often enough in the City Council.

In fact, we think that Sikyta could well enlarge upon his proposal. He has suggested two alternatives to new street construction — use of more one-way pairs and the staggering of business quitting hours. The latter is an effort to spread out traffic over a longer period of time at peak load periods.

He further calls for more use of parking bans along one side of residential streets. None of these proposals, in their specific application, is calculated to win friends but they could well serve the overall needs of the community.

Those living or doing business along a street may not want it converted to one-way use and may not want the parking restricted along it. People working in businesses and industries may not want their hours of work changed.

Ultimately, however, a city must do what is best for all of its people and that usually means that some individuals end up with something they really don't want. This is not a totalitarian attitude, but simply a part of the reality of living within an organized society. Any other system or approach would result in pure chaos.

The idea behind Sikyta's proposal is to improve traffic flow at a lower cost than usual — the usual method being widening of existing streets and the construction of new arterials such as the Northeast Diagonal and the proposed eastern belt line around the city.

At this point it would not be out of line to suggest that the city take a comprehensive look at all aspects of its street program. It may well pay to look at everything from construction through utilization of all the streets in the city.

Lincoln has never really looked at its street program in the kinds of terms that are now so dominant on the scene — that is, from the point of view of basic human values and needs. We now know, through the experience of other cities, that it is not enough simply to pour more paving as the number of automobiles on the streets climbs to unmanageable proportions.

The controversial status of the Northeast Diagonal is proof of this. Further proof is seen in such areas as Los Angeles where it has been suggested that drastic driving curtailment measures will have to be taken to save the city from virtual destruction by the private automobile. The old standards of measure for determining street work, in other words, are falling into ill repute.

Questions beyond those raised by Sikyta suggest themselves. Are we using proper procedures and materials in the new street construction that we are doing? The current deplorable condition of our streets leads us to believe that we are doing something wrong.

Do we need an arterial system that makes more use of existing streets, including what have in the past been strictly residential routes? Is our traffic engineering what it ought to be and really doing what it is supposed to do or is it a victim of habit and outmoded practices?

Lincoln might well look at its street planning and traffic movement with an emphasis on innovation and change. A citizens task force might be one way of doing this, fully utilizing the expertise that exists within the ranks of city government. We hope Sikyta sticks with his idea and maybe even sees fit to expand it.

Mannequins To Be Plump And Lifelike

NEW YORK — Well, now... here's a bit of inflation news that isn't all bad. Come spring, some of those fashion mannequins in store windows will have a more lifelike look, with the same out-of-control bulges we all feel guilty about.

Especially when we get an evel of the latest thing from Paris draped on gaunt fiber-glass fillies who look like they just escaped from a concentration camp. How else would anybody ever get that skinny?

Now, for the first time, we're going to have window displays that cater to self-indulgent weaklings whose passion for fudge squares leaves them forever on the plump side. (What the heck... let it all hang out... "fat" is what we really are.)

And that's what these new mannequins will be. Not just a little chubby. Not even pleasantly plump. Fat. As in broad in the beam, with weight-lifter thighs and a bosom that hasn't been stylish since Lillian Russell charmed old Diamond Jim.

Never again will size 18's have to wonder how they'll look in the new fashions. The answer will be right there in the window, looking just as haughty and pleased with herself as the sleek statues next door.

And, if the idea catches on, the next sight you see in the stores will be male mannequins with realistic 48-inch pots. Then football-happy husbands can see for themselves what happens when they squeeze those beer bellies into bell-bottoms.

It's probably all part of the new "tell it like it is" phase, but it's a driving for Londoner Adele

Rootstein, who manufactures mannequins. She makes all kinds: Twiggy-shaped, models of famous personalities, white-haired matrons, and now the "fatties."

Fat, she says, is beautiful. (What does she know? She doesn't have any on her size-8 frame.) And she thinks fat folks should "flaunt every gorgeous curve." (Actually, it's hard not to. After all, there it all is, right?)

The fact that she's flying in the face of all medical opinion doesn't seem to bother her much. Clothes for big people are big business (I saw an ad for a size double-J bra the other day), and Miss Rootstein's theory is that here over-stuffed models will show off large sizes to their best advantage.

Maybe so. On the other hand, she could (unknowingly) be doing mankind a great service by showing us choicelices exactly how we look in plunging necklines and hip-hugging pants. Especially if she gives window-shoppers a rear view of her mountainous mannequins.

Flab, any way you look at it, is still flab. And the new "fatties" may be just the shock we need to break the habit of seeing ourselves poured into that outfit on the skinny mannequin and fantasizing that we look as sleek and lean as she does.

Nothing should drive us back to our diets faster than the sight of a bikini stretched over a bulging 44-32-44. But what is most curious in today's nutty world is the possibility that it may even sell clothes.

Israeli Version Of 'Peace With Honor'

Economy Fine In Principle

Public support for President Nixon's positions against a tax increase and on cutting down on spending is a fact. The latest Louis Harris poll shows, for example, that a majority agrees by 59-28% that "President Nixon is right in saying that inflation cannot be controlled unless federal spending is cut to the bone."

In general, people will agree with the principle of economizing. Until they start thinking about it, or until their ox is gored. When the President actually takes the knife and carves the fat and the meat from the budget bone, he gets in trouble.

The same Harris poll shows that specific budget cutting recommendations are opposed by many people, sometimes by sizeable majorities. For example, Harris finds that the public disagrees with the decisions to cut back the Job Corps, the loan and under the rural electrification program, federal aid for hospital construction, the school lunch program and the decision to end the Head Start program.

On the other hand, the public favors increases in Social Security payments, federal aid to education and pay for military personnel and the expansion of such programs as the one which aids minority-owned businesses.

There is one area in which the public apparently favors economizing while the President does not. A majority by 58-33% says it disagrees with the administration recommendation to increase spending for research on new weapons systems for the national defense. This would appear to be a dramatic shift in priorities among the public.

By and large, however, while it sounds good to promise economy, there is still a public demand for a plethora of services and programs. The President might find himself like the congressman elected on an economy in government platform but who falls victim to the backscratching syndrome once he arrives on Capitol Hill. It's hard to say no. This President is pretty persistent, however, and will probably tough it out, regardless of public opinion.

Kindness Or Guilt?

Israel is paying dearly in terms of world public opinion for the Libyan airliner tragedy and commando raids into Lebanon last week. Even Israel's friends have offered condolences to the families of those lost in the airplane crash while the world press has condemned the Israelis for action on both fronts.

An Associated Press correspondent was prompted to write from Cairo that "the events shattered Israel's image as the peace lover amid hostile enemies."

The Arab world has benefitted, moreover, by playing it cool. The immediate response to the attack on the commercial airliner in which 106 out of the 113 aboard died was anger, which gave way to sorrow. Revenge was delayed and will come later if it comes at all. That sorrowful response, rather than an immediate violent reaction, has strengthened the Arabs' hand, if world opinion is important.

The Israeli reaction, on the other hand, is curious. Mrs. Meir expressed sympathy to the victims, but said that the civilian plane had to be shot down for security reasons. Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said approximately the same thing. It was too bad, but...

And now Israel announces that "in deference to humanitarian considerations, the government resolves its readiness to effect ex gratia payments to the families of the victims" of the plane crash. Israel takes pains to explain that the payments are gifts out of kindness, rather than admissions of guilt.

It really is an admission of guilt, however, from a fundamentally decent people who are living on that raw edge of desperation.

JAMES RESTON

Spiro Agnew On The Road

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Vice President Agnew has been out here on the road quoting Arthur Schlesinger, of all people, and saying some very sensible things to the Minnesota Press Association, and this not only indicates a change in the tone of his public speeches, but suggests that he is trying to build a much wider political base.

His theme to the editors was that they should not be so jumpy when criticized by some official in Washington. One or two speeches critical of newsmen, he said, didn't mean that the administration was engaged in a conspiracy against the reporters or planning to dismantle the First Amendment.

He conceded that Schlesinger was not his favorite historian, but he quoted him as saying that the Kennedy administration "used to wonder about the hypersensitivity of reporters."

"When editorial and administration opinions differ," the vice president observed, "why cannot the differences be accepted as sincere judgments on both sides? ... The fact is," he added, "that the Nixon administration is no more desirous of curbing the freedom of the press in America than any of its predecessors."

Well, more things could be said about this than the patience of readers would tolerate, but it is interesting that Agnew is now speaking in such moderate tones and equally interesting that the national press virtually ignores him when he does lower his voice.

Nevertheless, he has obviously studied the election returns, and noted that candidates who depend on small but ardent blocs of voters at one extreme of the American electorate don't get very far in American politics. George McGovern lost the middle before he lost the election, and it is clearly going to be Spiro Agnew's task, not only to hold onto his base on the right but win acceptance in the middle if he is to win his party's nomination in 1976.

This is not to say that the vice president is changing his tone solely for selfish political reasons. He did not come into national politics as a man of the right. His record as governor of Maryland was one of moderation and, in part, of liberal innovation, and he started the 1968 presidential election campaign, not as a supporter of Richard Nixon, but as a backer of Nelson Rockefeller.

In Nixon's first term, when the President felt that the criticism of the newsmen and commentators on Vietnam was beginning to turn the country against the administration and impair the President's credibility, Agnew was given the assignment of leading counter-attacks on the newspapers and the networks. And he did it very well.

In fairness to the vice president, however, even when he was leading the political charge against the wicked scribbler, he never personalized the battle, was always available to the men he attacked, and unlike some of his colleagues in this administration, never impressed those of us who argued with him that he was a zealot who was out to weaken the fundamental liberties of press and television.

In short, he was given an assignment by the President, and he carried it out, but he has restored the balance he wanted, and he now has a new problem. It is to move into the center, as Nixon moved away from the right, and to put himself in a position to lead "the new Republican majority" the President is trying to put together.

It will not be an easy task. He is in a better position now, four years before the next presidential election, than Nixon was four years before he managed to get the Republican presidential nomination in 1968, but unlike Nixon in those lonely days, he does not come into Minnesota for a speech and spend his time with the local Republican politicians, building strength and seeking support for the next presidential campaign. He is undoubtedly aware of the possibilities, and also of his likely opponents, but his ambition seems no more compulsive than his ideology. He didn't set out to capture the Republican conservatives; they captured him, and in a way he is probably more comfortable with his new moderate scenes than he was with his alliterative attacks and provocations on the newsmen a year or so ago.

Accordingly, he is now at the point in his career where Nixon was before the 1968 campaign, when men seeking office talk more sense than they do after they get in. One recalls with some nostalgia the comment of Richard Nixon before he got into the White House: "The president has a duty to decide," he said, "but the people have a right to know why. The president has a responsibility to tell them — to lay out all the facts, and to explain not only why he chose as he did but also what he means for the future, only through an open, candid dialogue with the people can the president maintain his trust and his leadership."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you please explain what a trigger finger is? Once the finger is bent, it won't come back on its own. I have to lift it up, with a moment of pain. The doctor said the finger has to be cut and a sac removed.—J.F.

Tendons pass through a tunnel or sheath, and sometimes, for various reasons, the tendon and sheath don't fit.

When a finger cannot be easily straightened after being flexed, that's a trigger finger. If the case isn't too severe, you may be able to straighten the finger but notice a snapping sound. In more extensive trouble, as in your case, the finger won't straighten unless you "lift" it back into position.

In children, a congenital defect may cause the tendon sheath to be too small, but the problem is more common among those past childhood. Inflammation of the tendon or the lining of the sheath causes swelling of the tendon or narrowing of the sheath.

This form of tendonitis is commonly the result of an injury or excessive use of some tool that puts pressure on the tendon area. "Trigger finger" is not uncommon from injury to a finger while playing basketball or some other sports.

Mild cases sometimes are helped by injecting hydrocortisone into the affected sheath. If surgery is required, it is not so much a matter of "removing a sac" as of slitting the sheath, allowing it to expand and thus curing the trouble.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have tendonitis at the elbow. I can press the ligament at this joint and it is very sore. While it may cause no discomfort while the arm is relaxed, it is so hurtful in certain movements that I cannot use my arm in many capacities. I am 68, no other infirmities, but this condition has crept up on me in the last couple of months. Is there a known cure or any relief? Will it disappear in time, or become worse?—F.J.B.

Tendonitis (inflamed tendon) most usually results from excessive use, injury, gout, occasionally other causes. At the elbow the tendon is near the surface, so injury is a probable cause.

Usually the irritation subsides — particularly if the related muscles are rested as much as possible. Trying to "work it off" is the wrong way; continued strain just prolongs the inflammation, just as a wound can't heal very well if the patient keeps picking off the scab before it is ready to come off.

Heat (hot compresses or other forms of heat) is very helpful. Often injection of hydrocortisone gives prompt relief, but it still pays to rest the elbow until healing is complete.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When my children had their checkups recently, I asked the pediatrician about giving them vitamins. He said they were a waste of money, that they didn't do much good except to the manufacturer, but if I felt safer giving them, then not more than twice weekly. What's your opinion?—Mrs. A.C.

My opinion is just about like your doctor's except that I wouldn't have been so rough on the manufacturers, even though some of the greedy ones do indeed use a lot of scare propaganda to sell more. The reliable manufacturers don't.

Vitamins are necessary — if a patient isn't getting enough from his regular daily foods.

So a properly fed child doesn't need vitamins in capsule form. Your doctor, having examined them and found no evidence that they were lacking nutritionally, rightly told you not to waste your money.

The sad fact is that poorly fed youngsters who ought to have vitamins (or a better diet) are the ones whose mothers don't realize that their children are being vitamin-starved.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you explain the meaning of the term "menorrhagia"? Also what is the meaning of "bilateral S-O"?—Mrs. R.D.

Been stealing a peek at your doctor's reports, have you? I think what you saw and misread was "menorrhagia," meaning abnormal bleeding associated with the menstrual period.

"Bilateral S-O" would be bilateral salpingectomy and oophorectomy, meaning removal of Fallopian tubes and ovaries. The "bilateral" would mean that they were removed on both right and left side.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If you are trying to avoid flour and cornstarch as a thickener in meat gravy, would arrowroot be permissible? What is arrowroot — a carbohydrate? What is its caloric content?—Mrs. C.C.

Arrowroot is a carbohydrate derived from the roots of various plants and can be used in place of flour or cornstarch — but since it is (like the others) carbohydrate, the caloric value will be about the same.

Arrowroot is useful, however, for those who have to avoid wheat.

Note to SMH: No shaving hair on the arms will NOT make it become "like a man's beard." It doesn't matter what type of razor is used, either.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

None Superior

Wilber, Neb. In regard to Judy Stone's letters on the quality of life, she made a few unreasonable comments. For one thing, there is no such thing as a superior race, and if someone believes there is and wants to attempt to create one, then our Constitution which says that all men are created equal is meaningless.

Who is she to say that those on welfare aren't intelligent and respectable people, or that they are inferior? She should remember that many a great man who helped build this nation came from a poor home where folks had little or no education — Abe Lincoln, for one.

Can she claim that he was inferior to George Washington.

who was wealthy?

Does she claim that intelligent and well educated people cannot bear a retarded child or a child with a birth defect, or one that might not become an habitual criminal? If she looked in the welfare line, she would find many as superior as her kind.

We are not on welfare and only had an eighth-grade education. By her way of thinking, it would seem that our son would have no right to live.

It is human beings we are talking of — not livestock! So let's not confuse the two, or it will be a sad day.

Arab Murders

Lincoln, Neb. I suggest the Anti-Defamation League quickly investigate the murder of 70 or more Arabs and others who were guilty of being on a commercial airplane that flew over Israel territory.

For that crime, they were murdered by Israeli pilots in fighter planes, probably supplied by the USA.

The world shared with Israel its grief when some members of its Olympic team were assassinated. The world should share anger about Israel's immoral assassination of airline passengers.

No wonder there is a Wailing Wall.

Seeking Help

Lincoln, Neb. This year in the matter of penal reform, some of the true issues are coming out and along with these issues, the many faces of our state senators are really showing. I cannot see that they have any interest in corrections, at all, except for the newspaper space they get from it. And they don't know or have the slightest idea what corrections really are.

Corrections are the biggest change ever faced by prison administrators and they are in a dilemma because of it. Statistics show that prisons are failures, and our administrators realize it. But man hates to admit defeat or failure. Senators, wardens, many educators have tried to find an answer to our prison problems and have found no suitable answer other than security.

We are at the turning point. We either progress or fall further behind. In Nebraska's case, it looks as if we are doomed to fail. We do have some interested people, approximately 1,200, serving sentences under the Division of Corrections.

They should turn to the felon. Ask the man serving time, the man who works for 35 cents a day and walks the prison yard day after day, living under threats and suppression, the man with no identity and no voice.

Several senators and our governor have made tours of this complex. They saw what they wanted to see, heard what they wanted to hear, then ran back to their chambers and drew up ridiculous and inept bills, none helpful to the felon.

Thanks to the labor, insurance and union people, a bill that would have fined employers for not hiring ex-felons was killed. This bill was only for the employers. A fine is much simpler than court action and facing the Equal Opportunity Board. Then they come right back with using felons as deputy parole counselors after two years from release. What's wrong with using a man now if he is capable?

Why not consult us, let us have a voice, before legislation is rammed through concerning us that we don't care about. We need sincere law-makers, not vinyl-covered ones, not status-seekers.

Whether anyone likes it or not, I will be a part of society in several years. Hopefully, I will find some way to be useful and helpful. I have 15 years experience, inside experience, and I am for real involvement. I would like to return to society knowing that we Nebraska citizens have competent and concerned leadership.

As it is now, I think we would be better off letting Warden Wolff run the programming, but don't restrict or be so quick to criticize. Remember, he, too, is human, but he is looking for help, not headlines, along with 1,200 other people.

Life Begins At Forty: Husband Refuses To Drive After Being Hurt In Accident

By ROBERT PETERSON
QUESTION: "The day after retiring last year my husband skidded and struck a telephone pole. The side of the car got pushed in and he broke his leg in two places. He's been on crutches most of the year but is back on his feet. Now he refuses to drive anymore — says it's too dangerous and he's too old. This is ridiculous since he's only 67. I'm not mechanical myself and don't drive, so this means we're stuck in the suburbs two miles from town. How can I get him to take up driving again?"

ANSWER: Keep prodding, and get some mutual friends to help. He's got a lot of good years ahead and the longer he waits to overcome this phobia against driving, the more difficult it will be. In the meantime, start taking driving lessons yourself. You don't have to be mechanically minded to drive. Millions of older wives sit around home waiting for their husbands and others to chauffeur them places, when they've got all the talent needed to drive themselves.

good old Harry has been deficient as a husband in ways other than financial. If the chemistry is right, couples usually stick together despite financial problems.

QUESTION: "I used to be very critical of old folks who spent half their time in bed and did nothing but complain. But now that I'm 65 and laid up with a hip fracture I'm beginning to see things differently. It's fine to urge folks like me to be creative and cheerful, but when you're old and lie there immobile day after day it's nearly impossible to be optimistic."

ANSWER: Yes, one has to be in such a position to appreciate what it's really like. But there are many things which are cause for optimism. Any elder who's bedfast today has a much better chance of recovery than his forebears would have had. And there are many more things to help occupy his time, such as radio, television, talking books, and a telephone to keep him in touch with friends.

ATA Honors Prof. McCreight

M. G. McCreight, University of Nebraska associate professor of agricultural education, was named an honorary member of the NU agricultural education honorary, Alpha Tau Alpha, at the group's annual awards banquet here.

McCreight was presented the honorary membership for his many contributions to agricultural education over the past 26 years. He was a charter member of the Beta chapter ATA in 1956 when it reorganized. Receiving an award for outstanding leadership and service to Alpha Tau Alpha was Duane R. Lechtenberg of Butte. Lechtenberg is a graduating senior majoring in ag education and animal science who has served ATA as president during 1972-73.

Omaha Bank Mistakenly Sends Couple $155,000

Kansas City (AP) — Bob Cooper and his wife sold their house in Omaha last summer and moved to Kansas City.

Mrs. Cooper wrote to the West Omaha National Bank and asked it to forward the $1714 the Coopers had left on deposit there.

When they got a check for $155,361.41 recently, Cooper telephoned the bank. He said a bank officer was angry, at first, that someone on the staff had signed such a check. Then he found out he had signed it himself, Cooper said.

Tracing the mistake, the bank discovered that in December an Iowa beef processing company bought 350 head of cattle from a

Square D Strike In 34th Day; No End To Stand-Off In Sight

The stalemate in negotiations in the Square D strike continued as the strike entered its 34th day Tuesday, according to Electrical Workers Union Chairman Jeff Ditzler.

Ditzler said Monday no further negotiating session has been set by Ed Reese of Omaha, the federal mediator in the strike. The last round of talks was on Feb. 14.

There was no activity other than normal picketing at the plant was workers came and left Monday, according to Lincoln police.

Police were investigating reports, however, that three Square D employees who returned to work when the plant was reopened last week found their cars had been spray-painted sometime Sunday night.

Exon, Staff Will Attend Conference

Gov. J. James Exon and several members of his staff left Monday for Washington, D.C., to attend the three-day winter meeting of the National Governors' Conference.

Exon and his wife, Pat, will also attend a formal governors' dinner hosted by President and Mrs. Nixon at the White House.

The death of James W. Hammond, 43, of 4211 Spruce, was apparently caused by self-inflicted gunshot wounds to the chest, according to Lancaster County sheriff's deputies.

Hammond's body was found Monday morning in a wooded area near 40th and Hwy. 2. He apparently died late Sunday night, according to deputies.

Ed Board To Meet In Dual Role For District, LTC

The Lincoln Board of Education will meet Tuesday evening as the board of the school district and the governing board for the Lincoln Technical College.

The Tech College board meeting is to begin at 7 p.m. at the East High School Library.

The school board meeting will begin at 8:15 p.m.

Sitting as the college board, the group will hear reports on legislation, enrollment and testing results in two programs; consider grant requests related to health education and libraries, and consider a student insurance program.

As the school district board, it will consider a recommendation on a request to reconsider the 1973-74 calendar; consider grant requests for two innovative programs in secondary schools, and hear reports on goals in physical education and driver education programs.

The meeting is scheduled to adjourn about 10 p.m.

University of Nebraska President D. B. Varner Monday took the first of several major steps toward implementation of priority considerations in the five-year academic plan, "Toward Excellence."

In memos to the three campus chancellors, Varner asked the campuses to begin work immediately to give attention to improvement in the quality of teaching.

In two other memos, Varner established interuniversity task forces to develop plans for strengthening graduate programs and establishing equality of resource allocation within comparable programs on all the campuses.

Copies of the memos were distributed to the news media late Monday afternoon.

Task Forces

Varner said he has decided to establish five inter-university task forces to deal with six of the 11 priority objectives spelled out in the five-year plan.

The other five objectives, he said, "can best be dealt with at the campus level."

In the first of five memos to the chancellors, Varner recommended each campus establish committees or task forces to develop "detailed and specific plans of action for improving the quality of teaching."

"The first, and in my judgment the most urgent, of the priorities established by the Board of Regents deals with the subject of improving the effectiveness of teaching," said Varner.

He noted the board had asked for reports by Sept. 1, but he said he was asking the board to call for progress reports then and final reports by Jan. 1, 1974.

He suggested the following questions, plus others the campuses may choose, should be addressed:

- What are the existing techniques for evaluating the effectiveness of teaching?
- How do you improve the quality of teaching?
- What system of rewards is proposed for effectiveness in teaching?

—How do you propose to eliminate ineffective teachers?

—Are there programs and proposals which can be developed on your campuses which would qualify for support from federal funds through the National Institute of Education and the Fund for Postsecondary Education?

In a memo to "Inter-University Task Force No. 1," which is to be chaired by NU Vice President Norman Cromwell, Varner called for a report by Dec. 1 on a plan of action for strengthening graduate education.

As specific concerns, Varner said the task force should:

- decide which existing doctoral degree programs should be consolidated with others.
- identify doctoral programs for total elimination —establish a timetable for eliminations and consolidations, but with the directive that such actions should be completed by Sept. 1.

—identify 5 to 10 programs for strengthening.

—identify steps for strengthening the programs, along with a timetable and the estimated costs, which, said Varner, must come primarily from "savings from programs eliminated and consolidated."

—identify programs which "offer promise for a regional approach."

—review the present administration and organizational structure in graduate education.

Cromwell is the university's chief graduate program officer. Varner established a second inter-university task force, to be headed by NU Vice President Howard Neville, to report by Nov. 1 information detailing:

- areas in which an inequality of resource allocation current exists, including such matters as salaries, teaching loads, fringe benefits, physical facilities, tuition and fees.
- costs required to erase existing imbalances.
- a timetable for correcting any inequalities.

Neville is the chief business affairs officer of the university. Acting as co-chairmen for the effort will be the directors of business and finance at UNL and UNO.

The memos indicated that Varner would be addressing the other eight priority considerations of the five-year plan in future messages to the chancellors and to other task forces.

Utica To Host State Dairymen

Utica—Members of the Nebraska State Dairymen's Association will gather here Wednesday, March 14, at the Flying V for their annual meeting. The one-day program will include two main speakers in addition to a business meeting and awards program. Guest speakers will be Dr. Richard G. Saacke of the Department of Dairy Science, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and Dr. Dale Van Vleck, a visiting associate professor now at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Animal Science.

Nebraska Citian Receives UNL Award

Mike Wirth, senior in agricultural journalism at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, has been named recipient of the Dwan Trenkle Memorial Award of $100. The award was established following the death of Trenkle, an Extension radio specialist in the NU Department of Information, in a traffic mishap in 1967. Wirth, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Austin Wirth of Nebraska City, is employed in the Department of Information as a student assistant in agricultural radio.

Nine Charged After Drug Raid

Greeley (AP)—Nine persons have been ordered to appear in Greeley County Court March 2 on drug charges stemming from a Sunday morning raid on a Spalding residence. Authorities said. Officers said Monday the suspects, ranging in age from 16 to 23, posted $500 bond each. A 10th person was charged with failure to obey a lawful order. The 10 suspects gave Spalding addresses. It was reported.

Ritums Gets First-Hand Crime View

Omaha (UPI)—Omaha City Councilman John Ritums got a first-hand view of the city's crime problem. Ritums arrived at a North Omaha steakhouse with relatives to have dinner Sunday night just as four holdup men were leaving. The gunmen bumped into the councilman on the way out of the door. Two of the men allegedly held pistols. Some 25 customers inside the steakhouse apparently were unaware the holdup was occurring. An undetermined amount of money was taken from the cashier.

Jaycees Give $500 To Library Fund

Bellevue (UPI)—Bellevue College President Richard Winchell said the school has received $500 from the Bellevue Jaycees for its library building fund. He said the total amount raised thus far for the library is $10,500.

Kearney Declines Hearing Request

Kearney (UPI)—The city of Kearney has declined a request by the State Court of Industrial Relations to voluntarily take part in a hearing on the request of local lodge No. 5 of the Fraternal Order of Police for bargaining power with the city. Jeff Jacobsen, legal counsel for the policemen, said the normal legal procedures will be followed. The court is expected to order an election after the expiration of the reply period which is March 26. The election would determine if over 50% of the Police Department members desire the lodge to serve as their sole bargaining agent with the city.

Jacobberger Files For Mayor's Post

Omaha (UPI)—Veteran City Councilman Fred Jacobberger officially filed as a candidate for mayor Monday. The only other announced candidate to have filed is businessman Edward Zornitsky.

Concern Noted For Stored Corn

Concern about corn in storage as warmer weather approaches was noted Monday in the state's weekly crop-weather report issued by the State-Federal Bureau of Agricultural Statistics.

"Most of the corn in storage was picked at rather high moisture levels and was expected to be marketed by this time," the bureau stated.

"However, local grain dealers do not have storage available and are not buying much corn at the present time."

Although some harvesting did take place during the past week due to milder temperatures, the corn harvest remains at 97%, complete while 93% of the grain sorghum is out of the field, the report said.

"Winter wheat is in good to excellent condition with some greening occurring with the warmer temperatures," the crop experts reported.

Precipitation received throughout the state during the past week included

'Innovative' Peru Weekly Began At Halftime Coffee

MOUL... "we sure do have fun."

Chadron, Kearney Discuss Colleges

Chadron (AP)—The Chadron Chamber of Commerce was called into special session to consider the implications of LB179, the bill permitting the state to acquire the facilities of defunct Hiram Scott College at Scottsbluff.

The Kearney Chamber of Commerce also met concerning the same bill and members of the two chambers conferred with each other by telephone during the meetings.

State colleges are located at both Chadron and Kearney.

Members of the chambers generally agreed that the taxpayers of Nebraska should not be required to pay for a newly created institution "when the existing colleges in western Nebraska can provide the same programs."

The chambers believe that a feasibility study be conducted to determine if there is a need for the proposed institution at Scottsbluff. The Kearney and Chadron Chambers plan to contact other Chambers of Commerce groups to enlist their support for the study.

Chambers of commerce at both Wayne and Peru, sites of the other two state colleges in Nebraska, have taken no action on LB179, according to spokesmen in those towns.

Papillion Man To Get Grant For Feedlot

Washington (AP)—U.S. Sen. Carl Curtis said Monday he has received word of an Environmental Protection Agency grant in the amount of $86,435 to L. P. Schram Feedlot of Papillion for a pilot beef feedlot waste management project.

The project has long been supported by the Papio Watershed Board, the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association, the Nebraska Water Quality Board and the University of Nebraska agriculture engineers.

The grant proposal was originally approved by the Board of Regents.

Boy Shot At Home, Is Critical

Omaha (UPI)—A 2-year-old boy was in critical condition and his stepmother under sedation at a hospital Monday following a shooting incident at their home Sunday.

Police said they were investigating circumstances of the shooting, which they said may have been accidental.

The boy, Sherwood Thomas, was shot in the side after waking his stepmother from a nap. The stepmother, Mrs. Louise Allen, told police she thought she heard a noise but does not remember what happened after that.

Mrs. Allen's 15-year-old daughter, Mary Alice, said her mother shouted at her about a noise, and the girl then noticed that the boy had been shot.

Hastings Man Ruled A Sexual Sociopath

Hastings (UPI)—Adams County District Judge Norris Chadderderon ruled Monday that Harold J. L. Irwin, 30, of Hastings, is a sexual sociopath and ordered him committed to the Lincoln Regional Center for further testing.

The ruling came following a sexual sociopath hearing, during which Drs. Charles Landgraf and Lee Dyer, Hastings psychiatrists, testified as to their examination of Irwin.

Both said it was their opinion Irwin was a sexual sociopath and would probably benefit from psychiatric treatment. The doctors said the treatment should take place in a psychiatric institution where the convicted rapist could be held in maximum confinement.

They said any treatment of less than one year would probably not be sufficient.

Chadderderon ordered Irwin committed to Lincoln for a period of not more than 90 days for observation and diagnosis. It would be up to psychiatrists in Lincoln to submit an opinion on whether Irwin would benefit from further treatment.

The findings will be returned to Adams County, and Chadderderon will have the option of committing Irwin totally to an institution or committing him to an institution until he is deemed ready to serve a prison sentence.

Irwin was convicted in 1972 on six counts of rape and one of robbery. The sexual sociopath hearing was scheduled following an order from the State Supreme Court which said an appeal on Irwin's behalf was premature because he had not yet been sentenced on the rape conviction.

Peru — When the first copy of The Peru Challenge rolled off the press earlier this month, nothing would have been more in order than a lusty football yell.

A tabloid offspring of the Syracuse Journal-Democrat, the new weekly might never have materialized except for a half-time cup of coffee during a 1970 homecoming game. The session stretched to 6½ hours as three Wayne State professors decided to swap their classrooms for a newspaper.

Incorporating as Maverick Media ("We don't run with the herd"), they first bought the Journal-Democrat. A few months later they launched TAB, a monthly farm and home news magazine. Now comes The Challenge.

Dick Hursey, 39, and the holder of a Ph.D. in English from Ohio State, is editor of both new publications. Francis D. Moul, a University of South Dakota graduate who was teaching political science, is the firm's 32-year-old president.

The third incorporator, English professor Mike Weber, also came to Syracuse but left during the first year. He now owns a boutique in Wisconsin.

"I grew up in Syracuse so knew the paper was for sale," recalled Moul, who had experience as a Sioux City Journal feature writer and Des Moines Register editorialist. "We got to talking about things we'd like to change and never did get back to the football game. I'm one for action, so we decided that very night to buy."

Admittedly it was a daring venture.

"We had faculty tenure and were living pretty fat," reflected Hursey, who edited the Journal-Democrat before moving to the Peru spot. "It may even have been somewhat irresponsible, but I for one wasn't ready to be on a single track the rest of my life."

Taking its pattern from the

Syracuse paper, the new Challenge is planned as "definitely innovative, yet very much a home-town newspaper. The Maverick group has already proved itself one of the loudest voices in the state for Democratic liberalism.

"We tend to be a bit out of step with the many conservative Nebraska weeklies, but that's part of the Maverick concept," said Hursey. "Rather than catering to established opinions, we like to sting a little."

Both Moul and his wife, Maxine, were McGovern supporters and delegates to the National Democratic Convention. Mrs. Moul, a University of Nebraska journalism graduate, is now assuming the Syracuse editorship.

A business column by Dr. Wallace C. Peterson, UNL economics professor and unsuccessful candidate for the U.S. Senate on the Democratic ticket, will be a regular feature of the Maverick papers. Another columnist is Mrs. Joan Burney of Hartington.

Still another Moul is on the Journal-Democrat staff — and in quite a different role than he is used to. W. Francis, father of the young president, became advertising manager after a long career as a sausage maker and wholesaler.

A new central printing plant is in the Maverick plans, possibly within the next two years. Installing offset type-setting equipment when they bought out veteran publisher Bud Wilkins, the owners now have their printing done by The Nebraska City News-Press.

Expansion

Also contemplated is an expansion of TAB, a tabloid-size publication the same as the new Challenge. Plans are to branch out from the monthly's present three counties to 20.

Also published now as sections of the Syracuse paper are The Louisville Messenger, edited by Mrs. Moul, and The Johnson County Courier, edited by Mrs. Mary Packwood. The Brownville Pilot will be printed as a section of the Peru paper.

A fulltime office has been opened at Peru, although no mechanical work will be done there. Mrs. Hursey, secretary Mrs. Debbie Adams and advertising manager Wayne Werning will also be at Peru.

Werning, a South Dakota native, was on the staff of The Seward Independent for three years while attending Concordia College. He is 23 and unmarried.

The Challenger, incidentally, is the successor to another Peru newspaper which shut down 10 years ago. D. M. Stanley, an attorney who is still a local resident, sold his operation to the Auburn Newspapers.

Comparison

After two years of weekly newspapering, how does the experience compare to college classrooms?

"I'll take editing for the personal satisfaction," said Hursey. "To me teaching was such an intangible that I never really knew what I was producing. A paper is something you can put your finger on."

"This is my niche," enthused Moul. "It's especially invigorating to work on your own paper. And if nothing else, we sure do have fun."

State Soybean Growers Crowd Special Meeting

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Nebraska soybean growers packed a special grower meeting at the ebraska Center for Continuing Education Monday.

The big attraction was the six-dollar-plus price on soybeans which has stimulated interest in growing the oilseed crop in the state.

Seed supply seems to be a major problem. Dean Lancaster of the Crop Improvement Association told the growers that soybean seed was in short supply. "There are some dealers and growers that still have a little supply but generally speaking what seed is available is being held in speculator hands," he said.

At least one promoter of the Nebraska Soybean Association is demanding that anyone who buys seed pay a membership fee in the association before he gets the seed. "We are calling me the godfather of the association but it works," said R. L. Wagne of Hartington, who handed in 10 new memberships to the association treasure.

Dr. A. W. Epp, NU agricultural economist, told the growers that soybeans stood a better chance of showing a profit on dryland than either corn or milo during the 1973 crop year.

"These predictions are based on an average year and are based on what we think are prices we can reasonably expect to see next year," Epp said.

Epp declined to predict what soybeans would be worth next fall but said, "There is a much greater chance of soybeans being $3.50 a bushel than there is of their being $2.50, and I think they could be above $3.50."

Epp cited a growing interest in soybean meal throughout the world, the almost total lack of a carryover crop, a demand for protein for livestock feed and interest in the crop by the Russian government which is trying to expand livestock production.

The growers elected five directors to run their organization for the next two years. They are R. L. Wagner of Hartington, Dwight Long of Lyons, Duane Beebe of North Bend, Allen T. Madsen of Nebraska City and Eugene Glock of Rising City.

R. W. Judd, managing director of the National Soybean Crop Improvement Council, called for increased research for the development of new soybean varieties and new methods of increasing yields.

"We have only 40 soybean breeders in the U.S.A. compared to more than 400 corn breeders. That helps explain the so-called yield barrier. Those 40 breeders have done a tremendous job but we need 400 people working on soybean production problems," he said.

Gresham Killing 'Self Defense'

Nyberg said the slain man was an unemployed disabled veteran. The family lived in York before moving to the farm near Gresham about a year ago.

Meanwhile, funeral services for the victim will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Metz Chapel in York with burial in Mount Hope Cemetery in Omaha.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by his children, Debra, Patricia, Jess, Zonya, Annette, Michelle and Elizabeth; sisters, Mrs. Kenneth (Marlene) Fix, and Mrs. Richard (Darlene) Timmerly, both of Omaha; and brothers, Marvin of the Philip-pines, and Ralph Jr. of Pineville, La.

Omaha Air Is Cleaner

Omaha (AP)—Omaha air isn't as dirty as it used to be, largely because of the enforcement of the city's air pollution control ordinance, the official in charge of enforcement said Monday.

Permits and Inspection Supt. Joseph A. Rogers said he based his comments on a report about air pollution recently completed by pollution control inspectors.

The amount of particulate fallout, dust and other particles decreased in 1971 and 1972 from the average fallout in the period of 1958-68, he said.

While the city's fallout was decreasing, a sampling station near Elkhorn showed an increase, Rogers said.

If the amount of fallout in Omaha's air continues to decrease at about the same rate, the city will reach a federal standard for pollution reduction by early 1974, about one year ahead of schedule.

The biggest camper operation in Northern California is American Camper in South San Francisco. You can walk for a mile through the warehouse: Mobil homes that have to be towed, down to modest two-person campers on truck beds.

We took an elegant land yacht — it sleeps six — and set off in search of spring. The desert is the land of romance.

My Number One daughter and friend did. I flew.

Last time I did any camping was 10 years ago in the high Sierra.

I said to the moppets: "When I was a Boy Scout, we just wrapped a blanket around ourselves and slept with our feet toward the fire."

After midnight I got up and sneaked into the back of the station wagon on a mattress. The ground has gotten a lot harder since I was a boy.

Off to the blooming desert. Arizona, the Valentine State. "In sunny Arizona, many romances have blossomed at the winter resorts..."

That's a commercial from the Chamber of Commerce. Commercial, but a heart full of bluebirds singing.

Madame is astride the Hertz rent-a-horse. Levi's stretch pants stretching thisaway and thataway.

Who comes riding down that lonesome trail? Mr. Right, that's who.

Arizona's desert is the last CARMICHAEL stand of the horse. All dudes want to ride horses down here. I ride horses occasionally in Arizona. Not to get married, bless your romantic heart. I ride them because everybody pushes me.

The hotel press agent says: "How about a ride tomorrow morning in the desert? A lot of desert flowers are out now."

When they say "morning ride," they mean about 6 a.m., podner.

If you go for that outdoors stuff, they mean you do it early. The hard way.

You say, "OK." All of a sudden you find you are on an animal who's just as grumpy about getting up as you are. He tries to scrape your hide off on the nearest saguaro cactus.

How can you find romance at 6 a.m.? What I need at 6 a.m. is an hour's more sleep. After that I want coffee.

I can smell the orange blossoms from here. (Or do brides carry orange blossoms these days? Probably not.)

In jolly England, young men propose on a park bench. London is full of parks which makes it easy. In America, the tender question is popped in a parked car.

This proves the car is unsafe at any speed. But mainly when it's standing still with the brakes and radio on.

In Arizona — (I guess) — the proposal is made on a parked horse.

(Do Avis horses try harder? Clean ashtrays on the saddle?)

The U.N. Population Commission is studying the population explosion. It fines fewer spinners in the U.S. than there were 25 years ago.

They wish there were more unmarried chicks.

Married women are likely to add children to the burdened land.

Well, not to put the knock on romance. Those Western pants really do something for a girl — if she's not built like a barn door.

Pants have improved since the original Levi was cutting blue denim into baggy jeans for gold miners.

Today's Western pants fit sugar like the paper on the wall. If she carried folding money in the pistol pocket, you could tell whether it was a $1 or a $5.

Thus many a romance blossoms.

"In spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." Nothing reminds him to turn his thoughts better than Western pants. (But not at 6 a.m., dear. I was up late last night.)

IN suburbia

If the sudden change in the weather during the weekend was any indication, March will come in like a lion later on this week. In spite of its roar, however, the month of March is anticipated in most circles as a sign that spring surely must be right around the corner.

The residents of the suburban neighborhoods fail to let the gloomy days of late winter hinder their plans — and they constantly are on the go.

For example, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Van Deventer of Park Manor have news of recent trips and houseguests. Mrs. Van Deventer's mother, Mrs. Nora E. Rue of Humboldt, was in Lincoln for a brief stay, and, during her visit, the suburban couple also played host and hostess to Mrs. Van Deventer's nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Rue of Falls City, as well as her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ondracek of Blair.

Prior to the visits from the Rues and the Ondraceks, Mr. and Mrs. Van Deventer and Mrs. Rue motored to Humboldt where they were weekend guests of Mrs. Van Deventer's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Blecha. En route home, the threesome stopped in Pawnee City for a short visit with Mr. Van Deventer's sister Mrs. Alice Phillips and her daughter, Jan.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Ruyle and their children, Sherri, Patricia, Nancy, Joan and Bob, of Eastborough participated in two birthday celebrations on Saturday, Feb. 24.

The first celebrant we will mention, is young Bob Ruyle who observed his seventh birthday by inviting several of his friends to a festive party on Saturday afternoon. The event was completed with games, cake and ice cream and the excitement of opening gifts. Those included on the guest list, besides Bob's sisters, were Mark Midtyling, David Wheaton, Todd Noble, Duane Irons, Scott Whitney, Mike Masek, Dale Dvorak and Greg Myers.

In the evening, the Eastborough celebration of Mr. Ruyle's grandmother, Mrs. L. O. Ruyle, took the form of a cake and ice cream dessert at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Ruyle.

Others on hand for the event were Mr. Robert Ruyle's father, Milton Ruyle of Beatrice, and his brother, Tom Ruyle, also of Beatrice. Also honoring Mrs. Ruyle were her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ruyle of Siloam Springs, Ark., and her granddaughter and great-grandson, Mrs. James Eldridge and Shannon of Green Forest, Ark.

DAR Observes Washington's Birthday

To some Americans, George Washington has become a legend; to others, he is an American hero.

To some Americans, that man's birthday is celebrated on Feb. 22, while others observe the national holiday commemorating the birth of the father of our nation on the third Monday of February.

The Daughters of the American Revolution is just one of the national organizations which traditionally observe George Washington's birthday on the actual date — and Lincoln's Deborah Avery Chapter, DAR, is no exception.

On Thursday, Feb. 22, that group's members hosted a George Washington Tea which was held at the Governor's Mansion. Special guests in attendance at the annual event included officers of the state DAR, headed by Mrs. Ray L. Hunter of Superior, state regent, as well as regents and board members of the other DAR Chapters of District 4, which includes St. Leger County, the other Lincoln chapter; as well as similar groups in Beatrice, Nebraska City, and Fremont.

"America, The Beautiful, In Song And Story" was the title of the program for the afternoon festivity. Participating in the musical program was Mrs. Gerald Baruth, vocal soloist.

Mrs. Donald R. Witt was chairman for the George Washington Tea, and the hostesses were the chapter's patronesses — Mrs. Fred N. Wells, Mrs. L. D. Arnot, Mrs. C. Harold Claytor, Mrs. Irma Coombs, Mrs. Allen R. Edison, Mrs. Samuel S. Faires, Mrs. M. L. Flack, Mrs. Owen E. Flory, Mrs. Joel E. McLaugherty, Mrs. Carl J. Olson, and Mrs. Floyd Ullsh.

Book Review At YWCA

Mrs. Ward Sims will present a review of Daniel Keyes' "Flowers For Algernon" at a meeting to be held at the Central YWCA, 1432 N. St., on Tuesday morning, Feb. 27, at 10 o'clock.

The review will be preceded by a 9:30 o'clock coffee for which the hostesses will include Miss Florence J. Atwood, Miss Lenora Larsen, Mrs. Albert Johnston, Mrs. E. W. Johnson, Mrs. Meda Knapp, Mrs. Melvin Olson, Mrs. C. C. Pelkan, and Mrs. James L. Way. Also participating in the program and coffee plans will be Mrs. H. E. Rowlee and Mrs. Roscoe Abbott.

All interested persons are welcome to attend the coffee and book review session.

MISS NANCY JACOBSON

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jacobson of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Nancy Jean, to Gregory Allan Prenosil, son of Mrs. Edward Prenosil, and the late Mr. Prenosil.

Friday, May 25, is named as the wedding date. Miss Jacobson is a junior at the University of Nebraska where she is majoring in elementary education, and where she is a member of Pi Lambda Theta honorary.

Mr. Prenosil is a former student at the University of Nebraska.

Wedding Plans Told

Naming the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Sandra Holtgrewe, who has chosen Friday, March 2, as the date for her marriage to Michael Goodwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Goodwin.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Holtgrewe, the bride-to-be has selected Miss LaDonna Kolder as her maid of honor, and completing the bridal party will be Mrs. Jim Brown, the bridesmatron, Miss Paula Beezley, the bridesmaid, and Miss Bea Holtgrewe, cousin of the future bride, the junior bridesmaid Miss Jodi Washburn of Ashland will serve as the flower girl.

Lighting the candles for the 7:30 o'clock evening service at the First Presbyterian Church will be Miss Cindy Hoffman and Miss Marlene Linsenmeyer.

Gary Steffens will attend Mr. Goodwin as best man, and the groomsmen will be Steve Cromer and Miss Holtgrewe's brothers, Mike Holtgrewe and Jett Holtgrewe. Seating the guests will be Tom Holtgrewe, brother of the bride-elect; Mr. Goodwin's brother, Richard Goodwin, Tom Schulz and Jim Brown. Mike Prendez will be the ring bearer.

Miss Holtgrewe is a former student at Lincoln Technical College, and she currently is careering in the medical records department at St. Elizabeth's Community Health Center.

Saturday, March 17, isn't just another day, nor is it just another St. Patrick's Day as far as Miss Rosemarie Blodgett is concerned. It has a very special meaning.

Miss Blodgett, who is careering as an executive secretary at the Lincoln Equipment Co., has chosen March 17, as the date of her marriage to Gary Nicholson.

The ceremony will be solemnized on Saturday evening at the Bethany Christian Church.

The bride-elect has been the incentive for numerous pre-nuptial courtesies, and one of them was last Friday evening when Miss Aletia Berkemeier was hostess when she entertained at her home. Twenty guests were invited for an informal evening, and the soon-to-be bride was presented with a miscellaneous shower.

Two additional guests who arrived at the party too late for picture taking were Mrs. Ronald Walker and Mrs. Darryl Latture.

Bridal Attendants Are Named

Revealing plans this morning for a March wedding is Miss Rebecca Jo Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Brown, whose marriage to Philip Charles Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip C. Wilson, will be an event of Saturday, March 10.

The bride-to-be has named Miss Shelli Bequette as her maid of honor, and completing the bridal party will be Mrs. Ron Brown, Miss Brown's sister-in-law, the bridesmatron; and Miss Renet Gerard, the bridesmaid. The flower girl will be Miss Sherry Biel.

Lighting the candles for the 4 o'clock ceremony at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church will be Steve McKee.

Dennis Wilson will serve his brother as best man, and Joe Vaverka and Richard Brown, brother of the bride-elect, will be the groomsmen. Seating the guests will be Miss Brown's brothers, Ronald Brown and Robert Brown. Dean Scott Richards will serve as the ring bearer.

The soon-to-be bride was presented with a miscellaneous shower on Monday evening, Feb. 12, when Mrs. Gerald Svoboda entertained a group of guests at her home. Mrs. Jerry Rittenburg was assisting hostess for the event.

Abby: customs often vary

DEAR ABBY: Some of my best friends are Jews, but I can't figure out something.

Once I went to a Jewish funeral service and I wore no hat. (I don't even own one.) After I entered, a little man ran after me and offered me a little skull cap, indicating that I should wear it. Of course I put it on. I looked around and noticed that all the other men were wearing one.

On another occasion I attended a Jewish wedding which took place in another temple, and this time nobody wore anything on their heads.

Are Jews supposed to wear something on their heads for funerals, but not for weddings? How about for regular Sabbath services? What's the rule? Please set me straight.

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: Covering the head is an old Jewish custom. During the course of Jewish history, especially in Western Europe, and now in North America, many Jews have felt that this custom is no longer required; therefore, differing patterns of ritual apply.

Among Orthodox (the most religious) Jews, the skull cap (or "yarmelke") is worn not only for prayer but for all the daily activities. Conservative Jews observe this custom only during prayer.

However, within the Reformed movement, various practices are observed, depending upon the particular custom of the congregation.

Opening lead - five of hearts.

Defense is generally passive or active. In some hands, the best plan is to simply stand pat and do nothing at all that might give declarer a trick he is not entitled to. This is called passive defense.

In other hands, you can't afford to sit still — but must adopt an active form of defense. Sometimes your activity will offer very little promise, but you must attack anyhow, because you see that playing possum will hand declarer the contract.

Let's say you're West, defending against three notrump. You lead a heart to East's jack, which declarer ducks, and East then plays the queen, which South ducks again.

At this point you should take the queen with the king, not simply because you have the K-10-9 and can afford to, but because it would be futile to allow partner to win and play still another heart. You know you have no entry card for the hearts and that it can't help your side to play a third round of hearts to force out the ace.

You would be beating a dead horse in that case.

Instead, you lead the jack of spades at trick three. This play can't do you any harm and might do some good. True, partner is unlikely to have the queen, considering South's notrump bid, but it is possible. At any rate, a spade shift offers more promise than a heart continuation.

As it happens, you hit pay dirt. Declarer wins and plays the A-K of clubs, hoping the queen will fall. When it doesn't, he leads another club. East wins with the queen and returns a low spade to eventually put the contract down two.

But with a thoughtless heart continuation at trick three, South would unquestionably make three notrump.

Some coeds think of college as a spouse trap.

Nebraska weather in a repentant mood can be very lovable.

When the obnoxious passenger gave the airline stewardess his dinner, she sweetly asked: "Will this be to take out?"

Exon Says He Would Veto Omaha Area School Merger

Lincoln (AP) — Gov. J. James Exon reported Monday that if the legislature passes a pending bill calling for a merger of Omaha area school districts, he'll veto it.

He made the assertion in a letter to Sen. David Stahmer of Omaha, sponsor of the measure.

Exon asked Stahmer to withdraw the controversial bill, LB300.

"I suggest all of this bitterness is not in the best interest of education nor the students affected."

Stahmer's bill would force School District 66, Millard and parts of the Ralston area into the Omaha school district.

On a point of personal privilege, Stahmer arose in the Legislature to protest Exon's injecting himself into the issue, without consulting introducers and without knowing "the basis in fact" for the legislation.

Exon is "trying to circumvent the processes of the legislature," Stahmer charged.

"To pass judgment on the bill and saying he will veto it without having talked to the introducer or knowing the reasons behind the legislation to me is astounding, to say the least," Stahmer said.

Exon's letter referred to "the mass circulating of petitions and even legal actions" by those concerned with the plan.

"In my opinion, all of this is unfortunately 'much ado about nothing,' because it is difficult to imagine how you could possibly muster 25 votes for passage of LB300," Exon wrote.

"While I customarily reserve my decisions on legislative initiated measures until and if they are passed and forwarded to me, I feel that I have an obligation to inform you now that if LB300, as drawn, is passed and presented to me, it will receive my prompt veto.

"Before any more time, effort or bitterness is wasted on this effort, I hope you will reconsider."

Rail Employees Work Safety Bill Is Revived

Lincoln, Neb. (AP) — With little debate and the promise of a later amendment, the Legislature Monday revived a committee-killed bill to provide safer working conditions for railroad employees.

The bill, LB177, had been killed by a 5-2 vote of the Public Works Committee but was placed on the floor Monday by a 28-0 vote.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff led the fight to raise LB177, saying he would offer an amendment which has been agreed upon by both backers and opponents of LB177.

The bill originally would have required railroads to maintain safe working conditions for employees along the tracks through a small right-of-way.

But Carpenter's promised amendment would require that those rights-of-way and safety lanes be maintained by the person or firms along the rail lines which use the trains.

mercial feedlots and make them subject to county zoning regulations.

The bill, LB298, was killed on a 7-0 committee vote and Springfield Sen. Orval Keyes, the bill's sponsor, fell far short of the 25 approving votes needed in his move to place the bill on the floor despite the committee decision.

With most of those senators in their seats deciding not to vote, Keyes' motion received only four "ayes" and 10 "nays."

According to Keyes, the statutory definition of the lots would bring them under county zoning boards and thus permit the lots to be zoned.

Any developers or persons then moving into areas where the lots were operated would then be unable to force them to close because of problems such as odors, Keyes said.

"This is one of the finest things we can do to guarantee free enterprise," Keyes told his colleagues.

But Sen. Loran Schmit of Belwood, agriculture committee chairman, said the state Department of Environmental Control can currently classify the lots without LB298, an explained committee members felt the bill was unnecessary.

Vote Slated On Omaha Council Bill

The Legislature is scheduled to vote a second time Tuesday on the final passage of a bill to require Omaha's City Council members be elected by district rather than at large.

The bill, LB12, was sent to the governor's desk earlier.

But a number of problems were encountered with the language of the measure and Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha was granted a recall request.

The problem centered on the fact that the bill was written to go into effect with the coming council elections. But it did not muster the 33 votes needed to be passed under the emergency legislation classification.

Thus, while it passed, it would not go into effect until the 1977 elections.

The bill would also increase the size of the council from seven to 12 members.

Indian Commission Reorganization OKd

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A reorganization of Nebraska's Commission on Indian Affairs, with a view to making it more effective in dealing with American Indian problems, was ordered by the Legislature Monday.

Passed on 40-0 on final reading was LB37, a bill sponsored by Sen. J. W. Burbach of Crofton, increasing membership on the commission from 13 to 15, and authorizing of $35 per day, plus expenses, to commission members while at work.

The commission was established as a statutory agency in 1971 but absenteeism among Indian members at its meetings has diminished its effectiveness, backers of the bill have said.

The new bill specifies that one of the commission members shall come from a district comprised of Banner, Cheyenne, Dawes, Kimball, Morrill, Scottsbluff and Sioux counties. Another would come from a district comprised of Box Butte, Deuel, Garden and Sheridan counties.

Three members each would come from the Omaha, Santee and Winnebago tribes, and nominations by the governor as representatives of these tribes would be provided by the tribal councils.

Other bills passed and sent to the governor Monday included Omaha Sen. George Syas' LB116, which provides that courts shall appoint interpreters, at county expense, when the proceedings involve deaf persons or others not able to communicate in the English language. It was approved 40-0 on final reading.

Approval by a 25-14 vote went to LB126, which permits the appointment of ex-offenders as deputy probation or parole officers. Supporters of the bill said such appointees could establish better rapport with probationers or parolees.

Law Applies To Burial Grounds

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The law which authorizes counties to spend general fund money for the care and maintenance of abandoned and neglected cemeteries covers Indian burial grounds, the Nebraska Legislature was told Monday in an attorney general's opinion.

"We believe that the terms 'cemetery' and 'burial grounds' are essentially synonymous and that there is no necessity to specifically refer to Indian burial grounds in order to render the law applicable thereto," said the letter.

The question had been put by Sen. Steve Fowler of Lincoln, for purposes of possible amendment to a pending LB277, which revises current law to specify the type of care and maintenance to be given such cemeteries.

Aid Cut To Jeopardize Program For Retarded

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska's community-based program for the mentally retarded has been placed in jeopardy by an anticipated sharp cutback in federal aid, the Legislature's Appropriations Committee was told Monday.

New federal regulations, due to take effect on March 15, would reduce fiscal 1973-74 federal funding for the program by $3.35 million, State Institutions Director Jack Anderson said.

Meanwhile the cut in federal aid would short the program between $600,000 and $700,000 during the current budget year, he said.

"Wherever the funds come from, we need to continue these programs," Dr. Anderson said. Dr. Charles Falls, director of the Office of Mental Retardation, told the committee he would recommend that the funding be made up with state tax dollars.

The anticipated federal cuts would have "a very serious and significant impact on our program," he said, closing down

Progress By Committees Is Reported

LINCOLN Neb. (AP) — At least eight of the Legislature's 14 standing committees will have completed public hearings on all bills assigned to them by the middle of March, according to information supplied by lawmakers Monday by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff.

He applauded the diligence reflected by the report and urged news media to make the situation known to counteract any suggestion that the legislature has been dilatory.

operations throughout the state, particularly for mentally retarded children.

Gov. J. James Exon's budget recommendation was prepared prior to promulgation of the new federal regulations.

It had been geared to providing "a well-balanced institutional and community-based program" for the mentally retarded, Anderson said.

Funding for the Beatrice State Home would increase from $7.5 million to $8.2 million in an effort to provide "individualized treatment" for all 1,200 residents.

That level of funding would also bring staffing "up very close to accreditation," Anderson said.

As for the community-based programs, Anderson said, the federal cutback now makes it necessary to find new money not included in the budget recommendation — either "by taxation or fees from those receiving services."

John Foley, executive director of the Nebraska Association for Retarded Children, told the committee his organization believes the governor's recommendation for community-based programs was not sufficient prior to the federal action. Instead of the $12 million recommended for the Office of Mental Retardation, Foley said, $16 million is needed.

The program now serves nearly 2,000 persons outside the Beatrice State Home.

The retardation discussion highlighted a hearing on the Department of Public Institutions' budget proposal of $43.5 million, a figure nearly $3 million higher than 1972-73 spending.

Exon's recommendation would increase state tax funds by $7.6 million.

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh told the committee he is fearful

Mental Health Commitment Bill Held For Study

The Legislature's Health and Welfare Committee decided Monday to hold for further study a bill to allow county mental health boards to commit patients to community mental health centers.

The bill, LB461, was introduced by Sen. Ralph Kelly of Grand Island and was designed specifically to help the Mid-Nebraska Community Mental Health Center at Grand Island.

The measure carries with it an appropriation request for $835,000 from the state general fund to pay for those cases which would be involved.

The committee, however, noting there are at least two other bills dealing with the same subject matter, decided to hold the Kelly bill to see if differences could be resolved.

Also held was a bill sponsored by Sen. Richard Lewis of Holbrook which would permit the counties to pay the $3 a day in care costs which are allowed for institutional care of the mentally retarded to be paid to the parents in some cases.

Lewis said the idea is to pay the parents something to offset costs incurred when the person involved does not adjust to institutional care and must be taken back in the home.

DA Proposal Is Killed

By The Associated Press
A plan to establish a system of district attorneys in Nebraska drew opposition from county attorneys Monday, and the Legislature's Judiciary Committee responded by killing the bill at issue.

A 5-2 vote laid to rest the committee-introduced LB26, which would have established a district attorney as prosecutor in each of the state's 21 judicial districts. County board's still could retain attorneys to handle other legal matters under the plan.

Spokesmen for the association of county attorneys proposed amendments which would have made creation of the post optional with county attorneys within each district. On grounds such amendments would make the bill ineffective, the committee killed the bill but indicated that interim studies would be pursued.

The same fate befell another bill given hearing Monday, Kearney Sen. Gerald Stromer's LB129, which would have permitted counties of more than 30,000 population to direct that the position of county attorney be full time, with no outside practice allowed. The minimum salary would be $18,000 a year.

The bill was supported by members of the Buffalo County Board, led by Chairman Dean Cannon of Kearney. He said no less than five attorneys in Kearney have told him there would be no lack of candidates

Livestock Tax Bill Held

The Legislature's Revenue Committee decided Monday to hold for further study a bill to require livestock owners to provide their own inventory sheets for property tax purposes.

The bill, LB401, was sponsored by Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell and would also spell out when livestock would be claimed in particular counties for assessment purposes.

Under the terms of the bill, where the livestock are located for the "major portion" of the year would determine whether the property taxes would be assessed.

Also heard and held was Omaha Sen. Richard Proud's LB344, which would require taxing districts to notify absentee property owners of special assessments for public works projects by certified mail.

If the taxing district failed to so notify, then the assessment would be null and void, according to the bill.

French Unconcerned About Tests

PARIS (AP)—The prospect of more atomic tests by the French has provoked outrage in countries around the Pacific Ocean, but here at home this issue has created no flurry in the election campaign.

The French government hasn't said whether the tests in French Polynesia will be held this summer. A series of explosions last year went unannounced in Paris, and the government may repeat the performance.

The tests are believed aimed at perfecting the atomic trigger for a hydrogen bomb which the French may build. The Australian government has said it will go to the International Court of Justice to stop them. Chile and Peru are considering combined protest action.

All this gets scant notice from the French voter half a world away. He wants taxes reduced, more education, better social services, early retirement and even government sponsorship of pentagae, a game played with steel balls in the shade of a chestnut tree.

Each of the three main groups in next month's elections deals with the bomb and the strike force in its program, but this has left most voters indifferent.

The Gaullist majority is faithful to the legacy of Charles de Gaulle, founder of the atomic program, and wants to maintain the nuclear program. The Gaullists say France cannot be truly independent without a strike force and the tests needed to perfect it.

President Georges Pompidou says France can afford the bomb.

No-Fault Auto Bills Held

The Legislature's Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee amended two no-fault auto insurance bills Monday but then failed to put either to a vote on whether to advance or kill them.

The committee first amended Beatrice Sen. Fred Carstens' LB153 by increasing the medical payment no-fault limit from $2,500 to $5,000.

Then the committee rewrote the interim study bill, LB161, with a series of amendments offered by Sen. Herb Duis of Gothenburg.

He said with them, no-fault "would be more palatable."

Both bills were designed to offer no-fault coverage for medical payments and for loss of income. Originally, both were for up to $2,500 in medical benefits and up to $10,000 for income loss.

The committee members wanted additional time to study the bills with their amendments.

It's Hardly The Same

The baseball world today is showing relief that the threat of a second straight strike by major league players is past.

It will be a relief to see baseball news being written again by a baseball writer rather than by a labor writer. But the biggest relief hopefully will come from not having to read any more of that garbage from big city columnists about "the guy who really is being hurt by the threatened strike is the fan."

Many of them have made it sound as if the nation's baseball fans would be put under great duress should the owners pull a lockout or should the players go on strike again.

Baloney. We enjoy watching a major league baseball game as much as does any baseball fan and we'd as soon watch a big league baseball game as any other sport.

But to equate a baseball strike with a strike by any other segment of this nation's work force is pure folly.

The effect that a baseball strike would have on this country can be compared only with the effect a strike by football players, hockey stars or basketball players would have.

No National Emergency

If all the milk truck drivers in your city were to go on strike, it would cause a definite hardship on many people, who would find it difficult to go to the store for their milk.

If the nation's postal employees or telephone operators would go on strike, it would be most difficult for any business to be conducted, although at times it seems as if these two groups are on strike even when they're not.

The strike against the Penn Central Railroad caused definite hardships on New York area commuters just as any transportation strike does.

But a baseball strike would hardly fall into the same class with any of the above.

A baseball strike might leave a void in the entertainment phase of many people's lives, but it would hardly keep his new baby from having milk, keep him from work or keep him from being able to conduct his business once he got to the office.

A baseball strike at worst could be classified as an inconvenience, but hardly a hardship.

Aggravation A Better Word

A better description than inconvenience might be aggravation.

The most annoying thing to a baseball fan about the threatened strike had to be picking up the paper each day or turning on the TV set and reading or hearing about kids just out of high school about to go on strike while pulling down $30,000 for seven months work and with a pension plan that pays them more than he could get out of any other industry.

And the guy listening to this on his TV or reading it in his newspaper is doing so while his wife packs his lunch in a paper sack or while he worries about how he's going to make next month's house payment.

We're sure he'd rather be reading about Henry Aaron getting closer to Babe Ruth's home run record or about Mickey Lolich striking out 15 batters.

Sports should be a diversion from the daily troubles we all encounter and for that reason we're glad the strike threat in baseball is passed.

But anyone who compares a baseball strike to a transportation strike or a dock workers strike simply leaves us laughing.

Auburn Upsets Waverly, 69-66

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

Nebraska City—Senior John Osborne's layup with 19 seconds remaining here Monday night gave Auburn a 69-66 upset win over fourth-seeded Waverly in the Class B-1 district basketball tournament.

Another upset almost materialized in the opener before a capacity crowd of 1,600 as top-seeded Plattsmouth dispatched Syracuse, 66-62. The game was delayed 15 minutes because of a scorelock malfunction.

Auburn, trailing by 10 points at one stage in the first half, went into a delay game with one minute remaining while holding a 67-66 advantage.

The Bulldogs, who moved to a 12-8 record, then worked the ball for 41 seconds before Osborne maneuvered for an uncontested layup.

"That's only the second time this year we've had an opportunity to use our delay game," noted Auburn coach Larry Dankenbring. "In all our games this season, we've either been way ahead or way behind."

"I felt a winning atmosphere in the locker room before the game," Dankenbring added after Auburn avenged a regular-season loss to Waverly. "We haven't had that attitude since the finals of the Twin Rivers Conference Tournament against Fairbury in January (a loss to the second-rated Jeffs)."

Sophomore Dennis Lessor led the Auburn effort with 24 points. Charlie Bell with 25 and foul-plagued Marty Weber with 22 paced Waverly, which closed the season with a 13-9 record.

"We hustled," said losing coach Roy Seymour, whose Vikings were seeking a third consecutive trip to the state tournament. "We just got beat at the foul line (17-10)."

Changing from a full-court zone press to a full-court man-to-man press lifted Plattsmouth past upset-minded Syracuse. The Blue Devils, whose 14-6 record is the school's best in more than 20 years, trailed by four points (49-45) with 1½ minutes left in the third quarter.

The man-to-man press, however, produced five quick Plattsmouth points and 10 fourth-quarter Syracuse turnovers.

"They're big, very physical," Plattsmouth Rich McGill said of Syracuse, which finished the season with a 2-14 record.

"We were expecting a good game from them despite their record," added first-year coach McGill. "They're good competition. We had a tough time the first time we played them (68-63)."

Plattsmouth appeared to have momentum with a 20-11 first-quarter cushion before the clock malfunctioning forced three lengthy, official timeouts. Syracuse regrouped and even led 35-30 at halftime.

"You can't release the ball that many times without a shot and expect to win," Syracuse coach Ron Wagner said of his club's 10 fourth-quarter turnovers. "Of course, that's been our problem all season."

Junior Don Sautter's 29 points kept Syracuse in contention until the final minutes.

Auburn, winner over Plattsmouth twice this season, can make it three victories with a Thursday night semifinal win. Tuesday night's other first-round matchups pit Nebraska City against Lincoln Plus X at 6:45 and Falls City against Norris at 8:15.

In the weird cycle of events in Big Eight basketball, a club can aim for a series sweep over one team one night and, three nights later, be trying to prevent another squad from sweeping a series against them.

Such is the case with coach Joe Cipriano's Huskers, who close the Coliseum season with a 7:35 p.m. Tuesday match against Iowa State.

On Saturday, NU completed its first perfect regular season against Kansas in 24 years. But Iowa State has captured two previous meetings this year from NU—a 75-64 decision in the opening round of the Big Eight Preseason Tournament in Kansas City and a convincing 81-60 verdict four weeks ago in Ames.

Tony Riehl

Lee Harris

Cal Christine

Coach Maury John's Cyclones will aim for the first season sweep over NU since they won two overtime affairs in 1969—the last year Iowa State prevailed at the Coliseum.

The game will also mark the last home appearance for seniors Tony Riehl (from Louisville, Ky.) and Cal Christine (from Sterling) and for junior Lee Harris (from Omaha Central).

Although a junior, Harris will graduate at the end of this semester. He was red-shirted during the 1970-71 campaign.

In eight previous Coliseum games this season, Nebraska has won four—a far cry from when a Coliseum date was almost a certain victory.

But, nevertheless, the Huskers demonstrated during Saturday's 62-59 triumph over Kansas, that they still can fire the basketball with proficiency. NU hit 51.8 per cent of its field goal attempts while limiting the Jayhawks to a 35.8 percentage.

In Saturday's game, Laurel sophomore Steve Erwin was replaced at a starting forward's spot by Christine and it was uncertain who would receive the starting berth for Tuesday's contest.

Erwin practiced with the Huskers Monday afternoon, but Cipriano said Christine would receive "definite consideration for the starting position."

The Cyclones, meanwhile, have been idle since losing at home to league-leading Kansas State 10 days ago.

"If we were in contention for the Big Eight title, I would not welcome this break," said John. "Certainly Nebraska and Colorado (ISU travels to CU Saturday) are both going to be a real challenge for us. We've been playing winning basketball but we've just been a few points short."

Sporting a 4-6 league record (with four of the loss by four points or less), ISU is 13-9 overall. Nebraska, tied with the Cyclones and Kansas for fifth place with 4-6 league slate, is 9-13 overall.

The game is the 150th in the series with Nebraska holding an 87-62 edge. Cipriano is 13-9 against ISU, while John, in his second year at the Cyclone helm, has captured three of four decisions from NU.

The only other league game Tuesday night finds Missouri (6-4) at Kansas.

In a 5 p.m. preliminary contest, coach Lonnie Porter's Nebraska junior varsity basketball team meets Iowa Western. It will be the junior varsity's final home appearance this season.

KSU NEARS LEAGUE TITLE

York Upsets Seward

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Crete—York combined some excellent shooting from the field in the second quarter and late clutch free throw shooting to upset fourth-seeded Seward, 60-51, here Monday night in the Class B-5 district basketball tournament.

In the second game at Fuhrer Fieldhouse Crete played without standout Tim Edwards, who sprained his ankle in pre-game warmups, but had little trouble in downing Central City, 84-54.

"Tim has a pretty bad sprain, but we hope to have him ready for our next game," Cardinal coach Walt Harris. "If there no serious problem, he'll play, but if he isn't at full strength, he won't."

The unseeded Dukes made 10 of 13 field goals in the second period to the Blue Jays' five of 13 to break the first game open.

Seward, which ended the season 16-4, only led once in the game, 3-2, with 6:54 left. Some 3,000 watched the state's No. 4 Class B team try to make a fourth-quarter comeback.

The Jays of coach Rod Felix were nine of 18 from the field to York's three of five. However, the Dukes made 12 free throws to keep their lead.

York will now meet Crete, now 19-1, at 8:30 p.m. Thursday night in a semifinal game.

"We played the way we had to in order to beat a good team like Seward," York coach Dale Neal said. The win was the first this season for the Dukes, now 14-5, over Seward.

The Jays beat the No. 7 team, 66-62, in an overtime at home during the regular season.

"We sagged in the middle, trying to force Seward to take the outside shot," Neal said. "We didn't want to give up the easy inside shot."

Felix noted that York "did a good job on defense and on offense. We told our kids they'd have to play better defense in the second half and look for the good shot, he said.

Top-seeded Crete made nine of 11 from the field in the first quarter and 10 of 21 in the second in racing to a 47-23 halftime lead.

Class B's No. 1 team limited the Bison, who ended their season 2-16, to four of 14 field goals in the second quarter after giving up six of 12 in the first period.

UCLA DIVER... Lincoln's Susie Kincade aids Bruins.

Kincade Helps UCLA Divers Beat Trojans

Los Angeles (AP) — Susie Kincade, an 18-year-old swimmer and diver, not only has broken the sex barrier in UCLA intercollegiate athletics but recently helped UCLA beat arch-rival Southern California in diving for only the second time in history.

"This is the first time my divers ever lost to a woman. I don't care if she's a he, a her or an it. She had better dives," Trojan Coach Peter Daland said afterward.

"An 'it'?" asked Susie with a frown.

"I'm more like one of the guys. I'm afraid," said Miss Kincade, a freshman who is earning her varsity letter with an unbeaten record in her three-meter diving specialty at eight dual meets.

"We were hoping to have Susie dive in meets, more to her benefit than anything else because of the competition," said UCLA diving coach Nick Rodionoff. "Our varsity diver became ineligible and I asked (Athletic Director) J. D. Morgan to check into Susie's eligibility."

The National Collegiate Athletic Association had ruled that this year women could compete with and against men whenever practical.

"It's not impractical at all," said Miss Kincade. "I had some trouble up in Berkeley at the Cal meet. I had to get dressed in the pump room, but that wasn't really a problem."

Miss Kincade, 5-feet-6 and 120 pounds from Lincoln, Neb., who has her brown hair cropped shorter than some of her teammates, says the fellows treat her well.

"For the SC meet, the diving was held the night before the swimming, and they all showed up to root me on. I didn't think anyone would be there. It was a great feeling to know they're all behind me."

She said the men she beats have been gracious.

"It's just like I'm not different from them. They just say, 'Good dives.'"

Susie now is preparing for the Pacific-8 Conference championships starting Thursday in Santa Monica.

"I'm lifting weights with my legs," she said, "so I can get off the board a little bit higher. But I won't do anything to my arms and shoulders. I don't want to look like a man."

Her long-range goal is the 1976 Olympics. She was fifth in the 1972 trials, thus missing the Munich Games. Right now she wants to compete in the AAU national championships to earn a spot on the U.S. team that goes to Russia this summer for the World Student Games.

But her participation on the varsity at UCLA may make her ineligible to compete in the AAU meet.

"We were both totally unaware that she couldn't compete because she's a woman on a varsity men's team," Rodionoff said.

Susie says her biggest setback is that she has to rely on perfect execution of less-difficult dives because men use their strength to spring higher and perform more elaborate maneuvers.

"I give away 20 points at the start of the meet just on degree of difficulty," she explained.

'Cats Hit OSU, Colorado Falls

... OU NIPS BUFFS, 78-68

Compiled From News Wires

Kansas State clinched at least a share of the Big Eight basketball crown by downing Oklahoma State, 91-67, at Stillwater, Okla. Monday night while Oklahoma upset second-place Colorado, 78-68.

The victory gave Kansas State, last year's league champion a 10-2 record while Colorado is now 7-4. The Wildcats can win the league title outright by beating Nebraska at Manhattan Saturday in a 3:40 p.m. affair.

The Wildcats shot 55 per cent from the field, 38 of 69, in raising their season record to 20-4. The Cowboys dropped to 6-17 over-all and 2-9 in the league.

Kansas State's 91 points were the most scored against the Cowboys this season. The Wildcats were led by Steve Mitchell, who had 21 points, and Lon Kruger, who added 14.

Oklahoma State was led by the game's high point man—Kevin Fitzgerald—who sank 26 points. Freshmen Lafayette Threatt hit a season high of 15.

The Wildcats led from the start as Larry Williams hit three straight jumpers. With only about five minutes of playing gone, Kansas State led 15-2. The 'Cats held a 45-23 halftime lead. The 'Pokes cut the lead to nine early in the second half, but K State roared back with nine straight points—six by Mitchell—and opened a 20-point margin with 16:20 left.

Oklahoma meanwhile, sank 28 of 33 free throws Monday night to Colorado at Norman.

OU sank 85 per cent from the foul line, but managed only 37 per cent from the field.

Colorado was a little better with 42 per cent from the field, but sank only eight of 14 free throws. The victory evened the Sooners' conference record at 6-6 and boosted their season record to 16-8.

OU's Lee Gilbert and the Buffs' Scott Wedman shared scoring honors with 20 points apiece. Gilbert sank five of 10 from the floor and 10 of 12 from the foul line.

Gilbert and Wright engaged in a scoring duel in the second half, with Gilbert tallying 14 points and Wright scoring 16.

Wooden Picks UCLA To Win Another Title

Associated Press

"UCLA is my pick." That's not Jimmy the Greek talking. It's Johnny the Incredible, the mild-mannered super-coach whose Bruins have won 68 in a row and are shooting for a hundred, or two.

You could almost hear "Meet Me in St. Louis" strumming in the background as Johnny Wooden predicted his UCLA team would win a seventh straight NCAA basketball championship.

Now 23-0 for the season, UCLA waits as the National Collegiate Athletic Association assembles another group of challengers willing to play the annual beat-the-giant game.

The National Invitation Tournament also eagerly awaits the NCAA selections since the Madison Square Garden event picks up the leftovers.

St. Louis is the site of the NCAA semifinals March 24 and the finals March 26. The NIT runs from March 17 through Sunday afternoon finals March 25.

North Carolina State, 23-0, has been running second to UCLA in The Associated Press poll for most of the season, but the Wolfpack is blacklisted from the NCAA playoffs due to recruiting violations.

But N.C. State Coach Norman Sloan says, "Not even I could vote for us as No. 1 against UCLA until they lose, they're unquestionably the best."

Long Beach State is a fixture in the top five, but the Southern California neighbor of UCLA must contend with the Bruins in the West Regional where it was wiped out the past two years.

That leaves Minnesota, strongboy of the Big Ten Conference, and independent Marquette as the warmest hopes of shooting down the Bruins.

Cyclones Drop Baseball Opener

HOUSTON (AP) — Steve Brewer, who set a Houston record of nine complete games last season, went the distance Monday to lead the Cougars to a season-opening 12-3 baseball victory over Iowa State.

Brewer, who also contributed two doubles to Houston's 12-hit attack, struck out seven and yielded seven hits.

Tom Duschinski, Houston's leading batter last season, had three hits in four trips and drove in four runs.

Brydl Paces Lincoln Win

Omaha—Sherry Brydl scored 17 points in leading Lincoln-Roberts-Darry girls basketball team to a 40-21 victory over Ralston, here Monday night.

The Lincolns, 8-3, meet Omaha D.A.V. at 6:15 p.m. Saturday in an A.A.U. tournament match in Omaha.

Technically, UCLA isn't yet qualified to defend its NCAA title, but that should be taken care of when Wooden's wonders meet California Friday night.

The Bruins, led by All-American center Bill Walton, are 11-0 in the Pacific Eight Conference and can eliminate the others with victory No. 69 against the Bears.

Long Beach State, 22-2, has locked up its NCAA spot as champion of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association and All-American Ed Ratleff says he knows "we can beat UCLA" in the regionals.

Memphis State will represent the Missouri Valley Conference and Miami of Ohio is in from the Mid-American.

With N.C. State ineligible, North Carolina and Maryland are favored to emerge from the Atlantic Coast's championship tournament with a bid while the loser goes to the NIT.

Fremont — Top-seeded Arlington overcame a shaky second half to defeat Columbus Scotus, 63-53, in the opening round of the District B-4 tournament at Midland College.

David City stopped Wahoo, 58-50, and David City Aquinas beat Ashland, 56-32, in other first-round games.

Arlington, which at one time held an 18-point lead, outscored Scotus seven to two in the last two minutes to insure its victory.

Four of those points came on layups against Scotus' pressing defense.

Dan Bock scored six points in the last two minutes to help David City hold off Wahoo's late rally. Wahoo had closed to within one point, 49-48, before David City began its spurt.

Aquinas breezed to victory after outscoring Ashland 20-5 in the second quarter.

Veteran Golfer Snead 'Improving' With Age

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — When Sam Snead came wandering out of the West Virginia hills to try his hand at pro golf, most of the players now on the tour weren't born.

"He's the most outstanding athlete the world has ever seen," Lee Trevino says of the old hill-Panama straw hat and the sweet swing that was his trademark four decades ago.

And Snead, now closing in on 61, is a threat every time he tees it up, even though he's competing against men less than half his age.

"I think he'll win before we get out of Florida," said Jack Tuthill, the veteran tournament director for the Professional Golfers Association Tournament Players division and one of the game's most respected observers.

Snead started on the pro tour in the dark days of the Great Depression, when Arnold Palmer was 8 years old.

It was the year Joe Louis beat Jim Braddock for the heavyweight championship; The Duke of Windsor married Mrs. Wally Simpson and Spencer Tracy won the Oscar for "Captains Courageous."

A stringbean kid named Ted Williams was a hot prospect in the Pacific Coast League; Roosevelt began his second term with John Nance Garner as Vice President, and civil war broke out in Spain.

'Apparent Bid' On Fieldhouse To Missourians

Havens Steel Co. of Kansas City, Mo., was the apparent low bidder Monday for fabrication and erection of structural steel for the University of Nebraska Fieldhouse, according to the UNL public relations department.

The Havens Co. bid for the lump-sum base proposal was $1,728,728.

Other companies and their bids include: American Bridge Division of U.S. Steel, Chicago, Ill., $1,872,733; Bethlehem Steel, Chicago, Ill., $2,081,100, and Lincoln Steel Corp., Lincoln, $2,383,220.

A public relations department spokesman said three other companies were listed to submit bids, but their representatives did not attend the opening Monday.

These opening bids will be reviewed by the Board of Regents before becoming final.

Baseball Salaries Show Increase

The New York Times

By Leonard Koppett

New York — To understand why several hundred baseball players, individualists by nature and training, support their Major League Players Association with such a high degree of unity, one need only to compare what six short years of well-organized collective bargaining have brought them.

Six years ago, 40 per cent of the major league players were earning less than $15,000 a year. In 1973, that will be the minimum salary, and it will rise automatically in the next two years.

Six years ago, half the players were making less than $17,000, and the average (including the superstars) for a 25-man roster was $22,500. Today, half the players are making $25,000 or more, and the average is about $33,500, as this table shows.

Husker Quintet Holding All-Time NU Records

Five members of coach Frank Sevine's Nebraska track team will be carrying all-time Husker bests into this weekend's Big Eight Indoor Track Championships in Kansas City, Mo., where NU is the defending champion.

Leighton Priestley, Roger Chadwick, Jim Hawkins, Lynn Hall and Ron Childs all have turned in performances on the indoor circuit this winter that put them at the top of the Huskers' indoor honor roll.

Priestley stands No. 1 with a 48.9 in the 440, Chadwick shares the top spot in the 880 with a 1:52.8, Hawkins is first in the 1,000 with a 2:10.5, Hall is tops in the mile at 4:06.3 and Childs ranks as the best indoor long jumper of all-time with a 24-10 1/2.

Outdoor Report

NORTHEAST
Snag fishermen have been taking occasional limits of two paddlefish in the Gavins Point Dam Tailwaters, with some fish up to 25 pounds. Anglers have also taken walleye and sauger to 2 pounds, on white rigs. Some migrating waterfowl have moved in. These include mallards, pintails, goldeneyes and mergansers.

SOUTHEAST
Waterfowl movements are evident throughout the area. Most common species are mallards, pintails, and a few Canada and white-fronted geese. Ice conditions are poor on all Salt Valley lakes, with open water along most of the shoreline and around spillways. A few anglers are still taking carp, bluegill and an occasional northern pike.

SOUTHWEST
Sandhill cranes are evident throughout most of the Platte Valley from Grand Island to North Platte. Other migrants are also coming into the area, including waterfowl, and small canadas in the Overton area, and mallards and pintails near Overton and Lexington. Ice throughout most of the area is not safe for fishermen, but has not retreated enough to give bank fishermen a chance.

PANHANDLE
Red Willow, Nine Mile, Winters, Tub Springs, Spotted Tail and Sheep creeks have been yielding a few rainbow trout to 3 pounds, hitting worms and trout eggs. In Winters Creek Lake, in Scotts Bluff County, northern pike to 3 pounds have been hitting minnows fished through the water. In the Reservoir near Hemingford, anglers have been scoring on northern pike to 2-3 pounds and perch to 1 pound, both on minnows.

NLRB Slates Hearing For NFL Players

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oral arguments will be heard before the National Labor Relations Board next Monday over the National Football League's assessment of fines for player fights on the field and its use of artificial turf.

The National Football League Players Association brought the unfair labor practice charges in the first case before the NLRB involving the NFL.

At issue are allegations by the players union that the National Football League Management Association and the member clubs of the NFL violated the National Labor Relations Act in two respects.

By unilaterally levying $200 fines each against more than 100 players leaving benches because of fights on the playing fields.

By refusing to bargain over installation of artificial turf on football fields, or on future installations of artificial turf.

After a hearing in Minneapolis, NLRB Administrative Law Judge Melvin J. Welles concluded that the league and its member clubs were in violation of the act in fining the players who broke from the benches when the fights occurred. He called for the fined players to be refunded the more than $20,000 in fines they paid, plus 6 per cent interest.

Judge Welles agreed with the players union that the NFL was required to bargain about installation of artificial turf but he found that the NFL had indicated its willingness to bargain and that the evidence did not show that the owners had refused to do so.

Shares Offered For Secretariat

MIAMI (AP) — Secretariat, 1972 Horse of the Year, has been syndicated for $5.7 million, trainer Lucien Laurin confirmed Monday.

"I don't know all the details," Laurin said, "but I do know that 30 shares were sold at $190,000 each."

Laurin said the deal also called for Secretariat's owner, Helen Tweedy, to retain whatever the 3-year-old wins this year. Mrs. Tweedy also kept some shares, Laurin added.

Mrs. Tweedy reportedly was forced to syndicate the colt because of a huge tax imposed on the estate of her father, C. T. Chenery, who owned Meadow Stables.

Meanwhile, Laurin announced he would not start Secretariat in next Saturday's Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah or the subsequent Hucheson Stakes at Gulfstream.

Secretariat's next start, Laurin said, would be the March 17 Bayshore at Aqueduct.

McDowell Out On $72 Bond

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP) — Sam McDowell, pitcher for the San Francisco Giants, was released on $72 bond Sunday after police arrested him at Phoenix Sky Harbor International Airport on a charge of public intoxication.

According to police, McDowell used vulgar language and was "combative," refusing to cooperate when asked to call a friend to take him home.

UCLA, NCS Still Leading AP Rankings

By Associated Press
UCLA and North Carolina State, with similar 23-0 records, continued to set the 1-2 pace in The Associated Press' weekly major college basketball poll Monday as Memphis State provided the only major change in the Top Ten.

Memphis State clinched the Missouri Valley Conference title with victories over North Texas State 93-88 and New Mexico State 54-53 and moved from the

No. 14 to the No. 10 spot in the standings.
Knocked out of the Top Ten was Indiana despite the Hoosiers' victories over conference rivals, Michigan State and Wisconsin. Indiana dropped from 10th to 12th.

Council Okays Rezoning For Service Complex At NW 48th, I-80

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday approved an application for a motel-restaurant-service station complex on two corners of the NW 48th and I-80 intersection in West Lincoln.

The vote was 5 to 1. Councilmen Dick Baker, Merle Hale, Dick Hartsock, Harry Peterson and Bob Sikya voted for the zoning change, while Councilwoman Helen Boosalis voted against. Steve Cook was absent.

The plan proposed by Sterling Flott calls for development of 63 acres on the northeast and southeast corners of the intersection.

The zoning change approved was from AA Rural to H-2 Highway Commercial.

Overridden

In approving the application, the council overrode the recommendation of the City-County Planning Commission. The commission recommended that the change of zone for the northeast corner be denied and that the zoning approved for the other corner be reduced to H-S Highway Service.

A move by Mrs. Boosalis to amend the requested zoning on both corners from H-2 to H-S failed for lack of a second.

She noted that under H-2 Commercial zoning, lumber and coal yards, garages, motor truck terminals and storage yards could be built.

The more restrictive H-S Commercial district would allow only restaurants, service stations, hotels and motels, plus retail shops.

"2nd Cornhusker" "We're just building another Cornhusker Hwy.," she commented after the majority of the council overrode her recommendation.

In other action the council placed on pending the request of Austin Realty for a zoning change and special permit at 36th and Pioneers Blvd. to build single family homes, duplexes and townhouses.

The developer requested that the council hold off action until certain changes are made in the plan.

The proposal came under fire last month from area resident during a hearing before the planning commission.

Action Deferred

The council also deferred action on another controversial zoning change for business at the junction of Hwy. 2 and Pioneers Blvd. at 32nd.

Robert Rentfro and Crawford Pierce had applied for a change of zone from A-2 Single Family to G Local Business to build a professional office building.

Action was delayed pending further information from the State Department of Roads on its plans to build the Hwy. 2 corridor in the area. One of the alternate routes intersects the property.

The council also approved the appointment of James LeRossignol to the Lincoln General Hospital Board for a term expiring Jan. 1, 1976.

In addition, the council reappointed Donald Shurtleff to the board for a term expiring Jan. 1, 1974, and reappointed David Brewlow and Mrs. Boosalis to terms expiring Jan. 1, 1976.

In other action the council:

Suits Filed For Halting OEO's End

WASHINGTON (AP) — Suits were filed in U.S. District Court Monday seeking to stop the Nixon administration from dismantling the Office of Economic Opportunity and to obtain release of $113.5 million in impounded antipoverty funds.

The three suits were filed by groups of OEO employees, their labor unions, several nonprofit OEO community action agencies and individual persons.

They charge the administration with "blatantly exceeding the powers given by the U.S. Constitution."

Howard J. Phillips, acting director of OEO and Roy L. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget, are named as defendants.

The suits were filed as a result of the administration's intention to end federal funding of OEO's community action and legal services programs, and to shift other programs to other agencies by July 1.

They raise a basic issue that has been agitated for months—the alleged usurpation and denial by the executive branch of government of programs enacted by Congress and presumably mandated by the legislative branch to be carried out.

"Pursuant to a plan to end the existence of OEO prior to the June 1973, defendants are systematically and openly curtailing and eliminating all OEO structures and activities and are refusing to spend monies appropriated by Congress for fiscal 1973," says one suit filed by Thomas P. Powers, an attorney representing 12 groups of individuals.

The suit said that at no time has the President or any member of the executive branch submitted to Congress the plan to abolish the OEO as it said would be required by law.

It says Phillips "has engaged in a deliberate campaign to paralyze agency action throughout the country and has unlawfully ordered all OEO employees to direct their efforts toward liquidating OEO and securing alternative employment."

Holdrege St. To Be Closed

The city traffic engineer's office announced the closing of Holdrege from 33rd to 34th Monday until March 26th for storm sewer construction.

Motorists are advised to use a detour on Vine from 33rd to 48th for through traffic. A separate detour will be used for local traffic.

Exon complimented the Lincoln Charter Revision Committee for acting favorably on a proposal he advocated to nominate council candidates by district and then elect them at large. The City Council Monday voted to put an all-district proposal before the voters on the May 1 ballot instead of Exon's proposal.

Exon defended the intention of the Lincoln senators to make alterations in city government in spite of Lincoln's home rule charter.

"I suggest that the overriding issue here, in the long run, should be the best and most responsive government as possible to the people. I do have doubts about the constitutional correctness of state government's authority to interfere with established home rule options."

The issue, he continued, is not one of home rule versus state dictates. Rather, he said, it is one of providing leadership in making government more responsive. Changes in election laws should be based on what is best for citizen control of government and not their effect on incumbents, Exon said.

Services Set For J. A. Kabat

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday for James A. Kabat, 85, a retired Lincoln water department employee.

Mr. Kabat, who died Monday, was the only known city employee in the history of Lincoln to serve 55 years. He worked as a boiler repairman at the A Street power and plumbing plant from 1905 until 1960. He retired at the age of 74.

He is survived by his wife, Agnes; four daughters, Mrs. Lucille Wagman, Mrs. Helen Wagner, Mrs. Adeline Lenezwske, all of Omaha, Mrs. Alice Fulmer of Lincoln; two brothers, Frank of Lincoln, Joseph of Concord, Calif.; a sister, Mrs. Anna Kabat of Lincoln; seven grandchildren; three great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Recognition Ends

Baton Rouge, La. (UPI) — The American Party can no longer be recognized as a political party in Louisiana, Atty. Gen. William Guste said.

Bryan Abortion Policies Outlined

The Bryan Memorial Hospital board of directors will be ready to take action at its March meeting on applications from physicians seeking staff privileges to perform abortions.

Responding to the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision liberalizing conditions under which abortions may be permitted, the Bryan board has adopted a new policy which stipulates conditions under which abortions will be allowed at the hospital.

The conditions include provisions specifying that any physician who wishes to perform abortions at the hospital must gain approval of the medical staff credentials committee, the staff executive committee and the board.

The March 19 meeting of the board will be the first at which the board would be able to act on such requests in line with its new policy.

The new policy also stipulates

Med Center Stays Same On Abortions

Omaha (Ap) — The University of Nebraska Medical Center is continuing to operate under old state law in regard to abortions, according to Chancellor Robert Sparks.

The statute provides that abortions can be performed only to save the life of the mother and they require the approval of two physicians. The statute was ruled unconstitutional by a three-judge federal panel last week.

Dr. Sparks said abortions are performed to save the physical life or what he termed the psychological life of the patient, just as the center has done for a number of years.

"We haven't changed our standards as yet, but we are studying the present situation," he said.

Dr. Sparks said that in addition to medical and surgical procedures, the University has required psychological and sociological counseling.

He said 75% of the abortions are performed on patients referred by other physicians. The others are mostly welfare recipients who are patients at the University Hospital clinic, he said.

Waverly Boy Listed Okay After Collision

A 2-year-old (Waverly) boy was listed in "satisfactory" condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital Monday night following a car-truck accident Monday afternoon at 75th and Hwy. 6.

According to the Nebraska State Patrol, John Ballou Jr. was injured when a car driven by his mother, Patricia Ballou, 24, of Waverly, was in collision with a truck driven by Earl Miller, 76, of Rt. 3, Lincoln.

Mrs. Ballou was treated at Bryan Memorial Hospital and released. Miller was uninjured.

Exon Names Don O. Bridge To Commission

Don O. Bridge of Norfolk was named to the State Game and Parks Commission Monday by Gov. J. James Exon.

Bridge replaces Bruce Cowgill of Silver Creek, whose six-year term has expired. Bridge, 50, is an officer in the Norfolk Feed Mills Co. and was a founder of the northeast chapter of Ducks Unlimited.

Karpf, Hahn Are Appointed By Gov. Exon

The appointments of Charles Karpf of Morrill and John Hahn of Oshkosh to the North Platte Natural Resources District Commission were announced Monday by Gov. J. James Exon.

They fill vacancies on the board which was created last July. Their terms will expire in January, 1975.

All In A Day

What is a little over three feet tall, has brown curly hair and dark saucer-like eyes? Sherief Ibrahim, a four-year-old boy from Cairo, Egypt.

Sherief has been in the United States for 2½ years. His father, Aly M. Ibrahim, is a student at the University of Nebraska where he will receive his doctorate in horticulture next September.

Sherief's weekdays are spent at Epworth Day Care Center while his mother works. His day begins at 7:30 a.m. with breakfast, which he seldom eats, and then on to a morning full of play, stories, field trips and bustling activity.

Although Sherief seems to be outgoing, he has been known to dive under the table when a stranger arrives in the room.

Sherief, a precocious child, finds interest in new and challenging games. If something new, like a camera, is introduced, he wants to know how it works and why. And he'd like a turn at playing with it.

With a good physical and mental development, Sherief frequently finds pre-school activities boring. So he is allowed to join the group of kindergarten children at the center after they get out of school.

Perhaps more American than Egyptian, Sherief speaks English at home, although he understands Arabic, his native tongue.

Whether clowning, sleeping or pouting, Sherief is definitely an individual. During just one day at Epworth Day Care Center he will display a kaleidoscope of moods — eagerness, quiet reflection, mischief, verbosity, stubborn tenacity and good old-fashioned anger.

What is Sherief's future? Whether he stays in the United States or returns to Egypt depends upon whether his father finds a job in the United States. Until then, Sherief will continue on in life voicing his frequent comment, "Teacher, I have a very good idea."

Latecomers Stand In Line 4 Hours For License Tabs

Long lines for obtaining license tabs continued into the evening Monday as the Lancaster County motor vehicle division of the treasurer's office and the offices of the county assessor and clerk remained open until 6:30 p.m. The three offices will extend their hours to 6:30 p.m. also on Tuesday and Wednesday to facilitate motor vehicle owners in getting their 1973 tabs before the deadline March 1. Many people reportedly spent nearly four hours waiting during peak periods Monday. (Star Photo.)

Three Cardinals Lose Key Vatican Posts

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI removed three Italian cardinals from key Vatican posts Monday in what appeared to mark the start of a major reshuffle of the Roman Catholic Church's central administration.

He also named new secretaries to three congregations in accordance with his policy that ranking Vatican officials should retire at 75 or rotate every five years. These changes were part of a rule Pope Paul decreed in 1967 and went into effect in March 1968.

The top official to leave his post is Carlo Cardinal Confalonieri, 79, who resigned as prefect of the Congregation of the Bishops — one of the most powerful Vatican ministries. He was in charge of controlling bishops' activities around the world.

Paolo Cardinal Marella, 78, retired as president of the Secretariat for Non-Christians, and Luigi Cardinal Traglia, also 78, resigned as chancellor of the Roman Catholic Church and deputy dean of the College of Cardinals — two honorary titles left without real power in the 1968 decree.

Cardinal Confalonieri was replaced by another Italian, Archbishop Sebastiano Baggio, 60, a close friend of Pope Paul and papal envoy to Brazil until 1969 when he became a cardinal and archbishop of Cagliari in Sardinia. Cardinal Confalonieri headed the Congregation of the Bishops for 12 years.

Replacements for the other two Cardinals were not immediately announced.

Cardinal Confalonieri retained his post as head of the Pontifical Commission for Latin America. But he is bound to leave this position, too, by July when he turns 80 — the age Pope Paul has set for mandatory retirement from all active roles as cardinals, including that of electing a new pontiff.

HIS DRINKING PROBLEM IS NOTHING COMPARED TO HIS DRIVING PROBLEM.

A man who drinks too much, too often, risks his job, his marriage, and his health. But if he also drives, he risks his life. And a lot of other lives.

Last year, the problem drinker managed to kill 19,000 American people in car accidents. Men. Women. Children. Babies. And half the time, himself. Not to mention the countless hundreds of thousands more who were injured, sometimes permanently.

The problem drinker is the problem. And we have to get him off the road because he can't get himself off.

There are many things that can be done to help him and to help us. Stricter drunk driving laws, stricter law enforcement, scientific breath tests and court supervised treatment among them. There's a huge national highway safety project just beginning that needs you to understand and to help.

Help.

Pakistan's Regime Tightens Its Control Of Press

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
Associated Press Writer
RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto's regime is tightening its control of Pakistan's press, radio and television.

One directive from the Ministry of Information orders editors to play down statements by Bhutto's opposition — especially the National Awami party — and to play up remarks by pro-government politicians.

Police arrested Altaf Gauhar, the editor of Dawn, an independent English-language daily in Karachi opposed to Bhutto. At least seven other editors and publishers opposed to Bhutto also were jailed.

When Bhutto became president in December 1971, he fired Z. A. Suleri, editor of the Pakistan Times, a paper that has a virtual monopoly in the English-language market in the populous northern half of the country.

The Times is part of the National Press Trust, financed by wealthy industrial families in an effort to create a press loyal to whatever regime is in power. Bhutto campaigned to abolish the trust while a member of the opposition, but since taking power he has kept it alive.

Bhutto's opposition has fought controls, and despite government pressure, more criticism of the administration has been published since Bhutto assumed power than during the military regimes of Field Marshal Mohammed Ayub Khan and Gen. Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan.

The opposition also has struck in other ways. Crowds in Peshawar and Quetta ransacked offices of the Daily Mashriq, an Urdu daily owned by the press trust, because it had criticized the National Awami party.

But the Bhutto government's resources have been greater. The Ministry of Information controls newsprint allocation and — according to the Investment Advisory Center of Pakistan — nearly 30 per cent of advertising in newspapers and magazines.

After Information Secretary Nasim Ahmad denounced Dawn in November for a series of articles which he claimed maligned the army, the government withdrew its advertising from the paper.

Bhutto is keenly aware of radio and television as pillars of support. His speeches are regularly aired in full during prime evening time.

Aslam Azhar, the head of Pakistan Television, says he sometimes gets two calls a night from Bhutto commenting on just about anything from political programs to the propriety of macabre plays.

Erb Memorial Fund Set Up

As a tribute to a University of Nebraska engineering graduate, the American Institute of Consulting Engineers has launched a $25,000 fund drive among its members to memorialize the late Carl Lee Erb of Kansas City, Mo., who died in office as AICE president in 1972.

As their initial contribution, the institute's members have given the University of Nebraska Foundation this past week a gift of $14,000 for the establishment of an endowed fund to benefit the university's engineering programs.

According to Dean George P. Hanna Jr., the income from the fund will be used for various purposes, among them: Special lectureships; development of new teaching methods and innovative techniques in various areas of instruction; and special engineering activities which will promote and enlarge the educational opportunities of the students.

Born in Lincoln in 1913, the late Mr. Erb was graduated from the university with a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering in 1935, third in his class, and was a member of Sigma Tau, honorary engineering society.

In 1936, he married the former Phyllis L. Richey of Scottsbluff, a member of the NU Class of 1938. He followed a career in civil engineering and became the senior partner of Howard, Needles, Tammen & Bergendoff consulting engineers. He was elected counselor of AICE in 1969, vice president in 1970, and president in 1971.

The newly established fund will be known as "AICE Carl Lee Erb Memorial Fund."

The Payroll Savings Plan makes the end of the rainbow more than just a dream.

There really is an end of the rainbow. It's not the gold-filled-pot variety, and it's not something-for-nothing.

But join the Payroll Savings Plan and see what we mean. Automatically, an amount you specify is withheld from your paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

You'll be surprised how much you can save. It's like the end of the rainbow because when the Bonds mature you have all that you've saved, plus interest.

Buy U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. It's a practical way to put hard cash at the end of the rainbow.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 3 1/2% interest when held to maturity of one year, 4 1/2% when held to maturity of two years, 5 1/2% when held to maturity of three years, 6 1/2% when held to maturity of four years, 7 1/2% when held to maturity of five years, 8 1/2% when held to maturity of six years, 9 1/2% when held to maturity of seven years, 10 1/2% when held to maturity of eight years, 11 1/2% when held to maturity of nine years, 12 1/2% when held to maturity of ten years.

Take stock in America.

Charge Dropped In Papers Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The judge in the Pentagon papers trial ordered Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo each acquitted of one count of the espionage charges in their 15-count indictment Monday and scheduled the defense portion of the trial to begin Tuesday.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne did not immediately rule on two other counts which he took under submission. He refused defense requests to acquit on 11 counts of the espionage-conspiracy-theft indictment.

His rulings came in the wake of six hours of defense arguments last Friday in which Ellsberg and Russo were acquitted on all counts was sought.

"There still remain questions of constitutionality on some of these statutes as applied," said Byrne of the laws invoked in the government's case.

But he added, "The question of constitutionality ... is best considered, analyzed and resolved after all evidence is presented."

Ellsberg, 41, and Russo, 36, are on trial in connection with the release to news media of the Pentagon's top secret study of the Vietnam war.

The judge's ruling on the espionage count against Ellsberg made official a "sanction" imposed on the government earlier for withholding documents from the defense. The government had already been forbidden from presenting evidence from the Pentagon papers volume involved in that count.

The removal of one count of the indictment against Russo, the judge said, resulted from the government's interpretation of the word "disposed." Byrne had questioned attorneys at length as to what was meant by "disposed of" in relation to eventual use of the papers and whether Russo was aware of such planned disposal when he helped copy the papers. Apparently, Byrne felt he was not aware of any plans to dispose of the papers.

"It was a real victory," said Russo later. "Considering what we had expected, it was a very good day." He said he had expected dismissal of the count against Ellsberg, but not the count against him.

"By the time we get through with the defense, there will be nothing left for the jury to consider," Russo said.

The judge held in abeyance his ruling on the request to drop two more counts of the indictment, which mentioned transmittal of the papers to unindicted coconspirator Vu Van Thai, a former South Vietnamese ambassador.

The government has failed so far in its efforts to introduce into evidence the fingerprints of Thai, but said it would present new foundation for such an admission when court opens Tuesday. The judge says he will rule then on those two counts.

U.S. Puts Laos On Its Own

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The United States has told Laos that it is up to it alone, the Laos defense minister, Sisouk na Champassak said Monday.

"The Americans have said that it is up to us if we want to retake the strategic territory we have lost since the cease-fire," Sisouk asserted in an interview.

He said the limited American bombing carried out around the southern town of Paksong the day after Thursday's cease-fire was a psychological lesson to the North Vietnamese.

He added, however, that the Lao government does not intend to try to retake Paksong even though the Communists seized it after the cease-fire was announced.

"It would be useless to try and retake Paksong, because it would only mean killing more of our men, and the North Vietnamese would fight to get it back," he said.

Sisouk said he was unhappy about the provision in the Laos cease-fire agreement which gives all foreign troops 90 days to withdraw from Laos.

"The new government in Laos will be formed under the pressure of the North Vietnamese," he declared.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
